Yule Baskets Go To 1,050 Needy Families Friday

Muster-Cheers to Distribute 700 With Proceeds of Christmas Show; Delano Lodge to Send 350 to Idle Workers; Food to Bring Gay Yule, Leave Plenty for Other Days.

The spirit of jolly old Kris Kringle will come to Mansfield tomorrow, to chuckle contentedly as he watches more than 1,000 Mansfield families made happy with heavily-laden Christmas dinner baskets.

From the Salvation Army home, which the Three Muster-Cheers will use as their distributing center, will go 700 baskets containing, on an average, 40 pounds of nourishing food. These will go, with few exceptions, to families that are entirely unemployed.

At Delano lodge hall, on Bowman street, 350 generous baskets will be given out to families of the Empire Steel company, who are either unemployed at the present time or employed only part time.

All of these baskets have been made possible through the generosity of Mansfield citizens and business concerns.

Tomorrow brings the climax of the Muster-Cheer project, for all that they have worked for in the past four weeks will be realized when tons of food are distributed to unemployed families.

The food is purchased from the Community Christmas fund, which has come to be an annual institution in Mansfield, and which in the past eight years has been sponsored by the Three Muster-Cheers—The News-Journal, the American Legion and Warner Brothers Ohio theater. While most of the fund is raised by the annual Christmas show, some is contributed outright by citizens and organizations.

Finish Packing Tonight.

Manfield Pittman, [illegible] to be handled and what is distributed, are invited to come to the Salvation Army home, at the southeast corner of Second and South Main streets tonight and inspect it. Legionnaires, who have sacked the supplies and prepared them for distribution, will put on the finishing touches tonight, and all the food will be in place with the exception of the meat and bread which will be delivered early in the morning.

Commander L. A. Cook and Herbert Gibbs of the American Legion, and Adjutant David Brown of the Salvation Army, will be in charge of distribution.

YULE BUSINESS NEARS '36 MARK

Sales Smaller But There Are More of Them; Postoffice Ahead of Last Year.

The Mad Christmas shopping rush was on in Mansfield today.

Throngs of last-minute buyers jammed downtown stores and merchants reported that the late sales were expected to boost this year's holiday business volume to the 1936 level.

"Business is spotty," V. H. Lodde, secretary-manager of the Retail Merchants association said today.

"People are not buying the larger units this year and there is a trend to the practical. However a larger amount of smaller articles are being sold this year than ever before.

"The result is that business in general has been below 1936 so far this year, but with the last minute rush that is now in full swing, I think that when final figures are compiled, it will show that 1935 figures have been topped and the 1936 level reached."

The holiday trade decline was blamed on the general business recession that struck the nation several months ago, resulting in

Allen Announces Extra Gift In Addition to Regular Adjusted Increase.

MAKE PAYMENTS FRIDAY

Company to Distribute $750,000 to Employes In Plants Throughout Country.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today joined the Christmas bonus parade, with an announcement from A. E. Allen, vice president of the company, in charge of Mansfield division, that the company would pay a total of $42,000 to the 3,900 employes of the plant here.

Decision to pay the bonus was reached by the company's board of directors last night, and the accounting division of the Mansfield plant today was bending every effort to the task of issuing the money so that all employes will have their bonuses by Christmas eve, Allen said.

Bigger Than Last Year.

The bonus will be figured on a basis of $5 to each employe, plus an additional sum for each year of employment with Westinghouse. The same system was followed last year when the company also paid a bonus, although not so large a one as this year's will be.

Throughout the entire Westinghouse [illegible] the total Christmas [illegible] will be about [illegible] number of men [illegible] particularly gratifying," Allen said, "in view of the fact that our employes have actually been receiving a bonus all year long, because of our adjusted compensation plan."

Under a plan put in effect in May, 1936, all employes are paid an increase over their base rates, based on total sales of the company.

For the year to date, this plan has resulted in all employes receiving, on an average, 12 per cent more than their base salary each month, Allen said.

The plan has resulted in payments averaging $56,000 monthly in addition to base rates, or

SWEPT BY FIRE

Mt. Vernon Business District Hit Again, Loss $20,000.

MT. VERNON—(AP)—Mt. Vernon's second major fire in two months threatened the heart of the business district for three hours early today, but was finally brought under control with the aid of the Newark fire department.

Fire Chief U. G. Pickard of Mt. Vernon suffered a broken leg when he fell into a cellar.

Loss was estimated unofficially at $20,000. The fire broke out at 3:15 a. m. in the five-story Masonic Temple building and Lodge Secretary L. E. Rowlinson said it might have been caused by a defective heating plant or faulty wiring.

The City Loan company, which opened an office in the building last week, suffered the heaviest damage. A short distance away in the business district fire caused $300,000 loss last Oct. 31.

Assembly Avoids Critic In Relief Problem, Lutz Says

Picture Too Unsettled Now to Set Up Permanent Program, Representative Tells Township Officials.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

The state legislature will wait until there is a crisis and action becomes imperative before passing a permanent relief measure, Ralph T. Lutz, Richland county representative, predicted last night in a talk before the Richland County Township Trustees and Clerks association at the courthouse.

"With the picture so unsettled, it is difficult to determine now just what will be done to solve the relief problem, but there is little chance that definite action will be taken before another month," he said.

See Cut In Costs.

Favoring legislation requiring the local subdivisions to provide "at least a part of the funds," Lutz said he believed that some counties will cut down their relief costs if the state doesn't provide too much money.

Measures which would make about $15,000,000 available for relief have been introduced in the house during the special session, with some $6,500,000 to come out of the sales tax funds in 1938 if the bills are passed, Lutz declared.

Pointing to the danger of too much centralization of government in Washington and Columbus, Lutz urged the trustees and clerks to "stand by your organization to protect township and rural representation."

Speaking on "Trends of Tomorrow," Henry Laribee, West Salem attorney, described township officers as "the public officials closest to agriculture and rural interests and the ones who can do the most to inform representatives in Columbus as to the needs of rural people."

Laribee contrasted the simple,

Seasonal accumulation of excessive stock which has weakened the gasoline market was given as the reason for the price reduction by Standard Oil.

PAROLE JURY TO PAY O. S. R. VISIT TUESDAY

Duffy to Bring Special Panel to Mansfield, Then Go to Marysville, London.

ASKS POLICE TO HELP

Special Richland Grand Jury to Be Called In January, Says Attorney General.

The special grand jury investigating alleged Ohio parole irregularities will visit the Mansfield reformatory next week, and a special Richland county grand jury will be called late in January to inquire into paroles from the Mansfield institution, dispatches from Columbus, where the grand jury is in session, said today.

The grand jury, summoned by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, has recessed its official investigation until Jan. 3 and next week a visit to the Reformatory will be unofficial, United Press dispatches said.

Come to Mansfield Tuesday.

The jury's visit to Mansfield has been scheduled for Tuesday. On Wednesday, the panel will visit the Marysville reformatory for women, and on Thursday will inspect the London prison farm.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Meade K. Bates was in receipt of a letter today from Duffy, asking him to ascertain the number of paroled convicts in the city, and to try to learn from them whether they had paid any money for their paroles.

Bates, ascertaining the depart- [illegible] cooperate with the attorney general, instructed the detective bureau to attempt to locate and question all known paroled convicts in the city. He also said he would confer with Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott on procedure in the case.

No Inquiry Next Week.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke of the Reformatory said he had been informed that the grand jury's visit to the Reformatory Tuesday was intended to give its members a chance to become acquainted with the institution.

The jury, called in Franklin county (Columbus) will not study institution records. Glattke pointed out that it has no authority to investigate Richland county records, the only body having that authority being a county grand jury, such as the one Duffy has announced he will call late in January here.

The special jury, which has been investigating the parole system at the request of Governor Martin L. Davey, has already returned two indictments, both for perjury. Andy Marino, Youngstown automobile dealer, one of the two indicted, posted $1,000 bond in Columbus yesterday for his appearance. No date has yet been set for his trial, nor that of Sherman Chrysler, former Franklin county constable, also indicted for perjury.

BATTLE TODAY ON FUNDS FOR 'GRAFT' PROBE

'Hatchet Men' Hear Davey Tell Them to 'Have a Good Time' In Denouncement.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — "Urged" by Gov. Davey to "have a good time at the expense of the taxpayers," the senate "hatchet men" met today to push through a $40,000 appropriation for expenses of the committee appointed to investigate alleged "legal graft" in state departments.

The appropriation bill, which also includes a $20,000 item for continuation of the parole investigation, was approved by the senate finance committee and is up for passage in the upper house today.

By threatening to tie up important legislation, insurgent leaders believed the house and the governor would be forced to approve the bill.

Davey 'Not Concerned.'

The governor, at a press conference yesterday, said he was not "the least bit concerned" about the proposed investigation, but at the same time he denounced the tactics of the upper house.

"It is hard for anyone to understand the senate, especially its tricky, unreliable and immoral presiding officer," the governor said.

He referred to Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder, leader of the insurgent bloc.

The governor denied reports that the administration was at-

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Union Trust Co., one of the largest banks closed in the 1932-33 depression, will reorganize as the Union Bank of Commerce under plans endorsed today by a sponsors' committee and prepared for court approval.

Samuel H. Squires, state bank superintendent, estimated the plans would net depositors $9,500,000 more than they would receive through insistence upon quick liquidation.

The bank, starting business with about $38,000,000 in deposit liabilities and capital of $5,000,000 would issue five-year creditors' notes for the final 20 per cent of Union Trust deposits. The first 80 per cent already has been paid or would be paid immediately.

YOUTHS ADMIT BURGLARIES, AUTO STEALING

Police Say Statement From Boys, Oldest 17, Covers Crimes In Past Year.

ORDERED TO COURT TODAY

Loot at 16 Business Places Change and Merchandise; Stolen Cars Recovered.

With the apprehension of four youthful suspects, detectives said today they had cleared up at least 21 burglaries and thefts in Mansfield in the past year.

After questioning the four for several hours yesterday afternoon, detectives said they had obtained statements in which the boys admitted burglarizing 16 Mansfield business establishments. They also admitted the theft of at least five automobiles, police reported.

Face Two Charges.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said the four youths, the oldest of whom is 17, were released to their parents late yesterday. They were ordered to appear in juvenile court this afternoon on charges of breaking and entering and automobile theft.

Detectives Lee Remy, Harry Copper and E. C. Fuller, who made the arrests, said the loot, which amounted to a small amount of change, cigars, cigarets and candy and other articles of merchandise, had either been sold or given away. They said the autos stolen by the boys for "joyriding" had all been recovered by police.

Break Open Windows.

Police said they believed they had the ringleaders of a gang of boys that have plagued Mansfield merchants with petty thefts for the last year.

Their method, the detectives said, was to break open windows [illegible] and after removing the cash drawers, they would take articles of merchandise that could be hidden under their clothing.

They told police they never divided the loot but "it was every man for his self."

Detectives said the boys all came from good homes and none had police records. Parents of the youths told police they had no knowledge of the sons' activities.

"One mother was 'shocked' when we went to the home to pick up the boy and wanted us to wait so she could go to the station with us," Detective Lee J. Remy said.

White Christmas? County Has 50-50 Chance, Forecast

There's a "50-50" chance that the Richland county area will have a white Christmas, the weather observer said today in forecasting rain or snow for tonight and Friday.

Although warmer weather was predicted for Friday, snow will probably cover the ground in most sections of the state Christmas day, forecasters said, giving youngsters a chance to try out new skates, sleds and skis.

Above-normal temperatures prevailed in Mansfield yesterday, the first day of winter, with the high for the day at 41 degrees. The average was 31, three degrees above normal.

The mercury last night dropped to 21 above zero when the sky cleared following a light rain late yesterday. The temperature was 29 at noon today.

Woman Tavern Owner Loses In High Court, Must Go to Prison

Mrs. Angeline Nearick, operator of the Carioca tavern at 78 Wayne street, lost a six-month fight against serving a 90-day workhouse sentence today when the Ohio supreme court refused to review her appeal.

With her last hope gone, Mrs. Nearick will be required to begin her sentence in the Toledo workhouse at once, Probate Judge C. J. Anderson said.

Sentence was imposed last June 11 by Judge Anderson when Mrs. Nearick was convicted on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor by permitting a 16-year-old boy to loiter in her establishment.

The case was appealed to the district appellate court by Atty. J. V. Will, defense counsel, and then carried to the supreme court after the probate court sentence was upheld. The case was argued in Columbus last week.

In his plea to the supreme court, Will contended that Mrs. Nearick's establishment was a restaurant and not a saloon and that she could not properly be convicted on a contributing charge.

Arrested by city detectives last May 16, Mrs. Nearick was also indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of illegal sale of beer.

Mrs. Nearick won a stay of sentence to permit the filing of an appeal and has been free on bond since June.

Hunt 'Flying Santa' Who Fell In Ocean Before Horrified Crowd

BOSTON — (AP) — Army planes and police boats searched Boston harbor today for the body of U. S. Army Corporal Harold J. Kramer, 35, former Ohioan, whose parachute descent as a flying Santa Claus turned to tragedy last night over Boston's oceanside airport when a freshening wind blew him into the water.

Veteran of more than 100 successful jumps within eight years, Kramer plunged to his death while his wife and their 18-month-old son looked on in the midst of a group of army wives and children to whose Christmas party he was making his annual contribution. He formerly lived in Pickerington, O.

Kramer bailed out over the airport administration building at 1,500 feet, from a plane piloted by Captain Richard E. Cobb. Carried seaward by the wind, Kramer sideslipped his 'chute desperately, but only a few spectators realized he was in danger.

The Christmas party's gayety changed to horror when Cobb released flares, first indication the jumper had landed in the water.

Meanwhile, a police cruiser dashing across the airfield with flares and floodlights for the search collided with an army plane taxiing to a landing.

The plane's propeller sliced through the car roof, gashed the face of Sergeant Edward J. Seibold, police ballistics expert, fractured his jaw and knocked out three teeth.

Sees Roosevelt 'Compelled' to Run for Third Term

NORRIS FLAYS 'PROPAGANDA' FROM ENEMIES

Senator Blasts at 'Outside' Efforts to Frighten and Control Congress.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.)—Continued blocking of the New Deal program will "compel" President Roosevelt to seek a third term, Sen. George W. Norris, I., Neb., an influential New Deal backer, said today.

The Nebraskan's statement was of special interest because he was one of a senate liberal bloc that discussed the general legislative situation this week at the White House and urged President Roosevelt to resist demands for drastic changes in policy to combat the business recession.

Sees 'Campaign' Continue..

"There is a concerted outside effort to frighten and control congress and to defeat the president's program," Norris said.

"It probably will continue until 1940 in an effort to elect a reactionary president. And that will compel Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term despite his own desire to retire.

"Personally, I do not believe in the third term idea but if this false propaganda campaign continues I will do everything in my power to aid in re-election of Mr. Roosevelt."

In setting forth his views of the current congressional conflict over efforts to encourage private enterprise, Norris disagreed sharply with a powerful group of senate Democrats and Republicans seeking drastic changes in administration spending, taxation and power policies. He charged that public utilities and a majority of the newspapers were chiefly responsible for what he considered an unfair campaign to defeat the president's program.

A contrasting view was taken by Sen Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., who praised the "fair" presentation of facts by the nation's press.

"The president," Norris said, "is not trying to control congress in my opinion. For instance, the agriculture committee never got any co-operation out of the agriculture department when it was working on the farm bill except when it asked for help.

Hits Newspapers.

"All this talk about the president dictating to congress is propaganda. The great majority of the newspapers of the country are not giving a fair or impartial view of the present situation because they are opposed to the New Deal and to New Deal legislation.

"The president is, in a general way, putting his program up to congress and saying: 'It is your problem.' The people who are trying to control congress are the newspapers and, if the campaign continues, it will force Mr. Roosevelt to run again."

Burke, however, said "the press as a whole has done a fine job, although there are some which are one-sided either for or against the administration." Burke has declared himself opposed to a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

"But generally the newspapers are eager to and do give the facts fairly. I believe that virtually all members of the senate feel that that is true."

Christmas To Be Unique Affair For Orrville Couple

ORRVILLE —(U.P.)— The Christmas party to be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Myers here will be unique in several respects.

In the first place, the couple will observe their 60th wedding anniversary. In the second place, their 43-year-old triplets will be guests of honor.

The family's Christmas story began on Dec. 24, 1877, when Allie Fair and Fred Myers were married at Millersburg, Holmes county.

Another big event in their lives was the birth of triplets—Chester, Esther and Lester—In August 1894. For months after their birth, people came to the Myers home to see the triplets, quite a rarity in their own community.

The triplets and five other Myers children will be home for the Christmas party.

There are 14 grandchildren, four great grandchildren, and enough other relatives to make a guest list of 37 for the Christmas party.

Marianne Springer, who was a member of the society staff of The News-Journal during the last vacation period, is continuing her studies at Northwestern university, but she is far from out of the newspaper picture. A student in journalism, Marianne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Springer, 20 Euclid avenue, has been assigned to several interesting stories. Youth Thrown Through Windshield as Car Hits Pole.

Thrown through the windshield when the automobile he was driving struck a telephone pole along route 42 last night, John McNaul, 17, of near Lexington was in a critical condition today at General hospital.

The car, which was headed north, turned over after crashing into the pole, State Patrolman R. L. Doebel said.

In another accident in the southern part of the county, Lester Fry and Calvin Chamberlin, both of near Bellville, escaped unhurt about 6:45 p. m. yesterday when their automobiles sideswiped on a country road just west of Bellville.

COURT TO TEST MONOPOLY LAW

State's Highest Tribunal to Hear Suit Attacking Ohio Liquor Regulations.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A suit directly attacking constitutionality of the state liquor monopoly will be heard by the Ohio supreme court sometime in February or March, it was indicated today.

The court agreed yesterday to hear the suit on its merits, marking the first time that constitutionality of the post-prohibition liquor control system has been reviewed by the state's highest court. Several common pleas courts have upheld the legality of the Ohio liquor law and at least two have ruled against the state.

The supreme court action was brought by Eli G. Frankenstein of Cincinnati, who lost in the lower courts a fight to escape paying assessments imposed by the liquor board on liquor imported into Ohio.

Frankenstein, while offering to pay a $1 gallonage tax on liquor purchased in Kentucky for his personal use, protested a charge equal to 30 per cent of the invoice price of the liquor and a 15 per cent handling fee.

His counsel termed the taxing power unlawful and contended that establishment of a monopoly in a private enterprise created a Communistic state in Ohio.

A three-judge federal court now is considering whether to hear another suit challenging validity of the Ohio liquor law and the Second Distirict Court of Appeals recently affirmed in the Frankenstein case validity of the monopoly.

ALCOHOLISM, DISEASE CAUSE OF HEALY'S DEATH, AUTOPSY SHOWS

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Ted Healy's unidentified antagonist, who gave him a beating Sunday night, was absolved of blame for his death today in the coroner's report which attributed the comedian's end to disease and alcoholism.

Two reports of the death were made. The official death certificate, signed by Dr. A. F. Wagner, autopsy surgeon, gave the causes as acute toxic nephritis, with acute and chronic alcoholism as contributory factors. The other, given out by the coroner's office, said it was due to heart disease and lung congestion.

Neather of them attached any blames to the person who intercepted Healy, who was celebrating the birth of his first son, somewhere along his round of the night clubs Sunday night and Monday morning, and fought with him. Healy's head was cut and bruised, but Dr. Wagner said the wounds were superficial.

Healy was treated by a doctor sometime after his fight and then went home. Monday he began having convulsions, which continued until he died Tuesday. Dr. Wyant Lamont, who attended him, refused to sign the death certificate because of the head wounds Healy suffered, and the coroner's investigation followed.

Healy was creator of the "stooge" and was a featured star for many years in comedy roles for the vaudeville, radio and pictures. He lived as a boy in Canton and Columbus, O.

Healy's funeral will be held today at St. Augustine's Catholic church in Culver City. Father John O'Donnell will celebrate the requiem mass. Pallbearers will be E. J. Mannix, Harry Rapf, Charles Foy, Fay Mayer, Dick Powell, Busby Berkeley, Charles Reisner and Jack Marcus. The burial will be in Calvary cemetery, where Healy's mother is buried.

GREEN ASSERTS RIVAL REJECTED PACT CIO OK'D

Federation Chief Says Lewis Gets Ready to Run Self For President.

COSHOCTON — (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, back among home townspeople today for his annual Christmas holiday visit, blamed John L. Lewis' "dictatorship" over the Committee for Industrial Organization for failure of peace conferences between the two groups.

At the same time the AFL leader, reviewing his years of effort in the labor movement hinted that his duties of office might be bearing a bit heavily on him. He said:

'I do not know how long I will continue. I've put such hard service into this job for the past several years that I will be able to appreciate, when I may do so, a return to the peaceful home life of Coshocton."

But Green, charter members for half a century of Morgan Run local of Lewis' United Mine Workers, offered no quarter when mentioning the CIO-AFL feud. Speaking before several hundred fellow townsmen at a banquet last night, he said:

Won't Surrender.

"The word surrender is not in the vocabulary of the American Federation of Labor. Through much of its life, it has been submitted to severe tests. We will meet those tests unflinchingly."

Green's local has been inactive for years. It never has acted on a national executive committee order for his expulsion which was issued when labor's internecine warfare reached its height.

Speaking of recent conferences in Washington, D. C., when CIO and AFL groups sought to make a peace pact, Green said:

"I want to tell you a secret. A committee representing these two groups agreed upon a plan we proposed to the twelve (members of the committee).

"That was because the dictator was absent somewhere. When they (the groups) returned in the afternoon, the dictator had aroused himself and he said: 'Thumbs down. Veto.'

"The committee then said. 'Sorry, we can't accept that plan' and we replied: 'Then we're done'."

Green declared the issue between the two labor groups was not one of class unionism and industrial unionism but one of Lewis attempting to realize "a personal ambition."

"Lewis in attempting to establish an independent political party is practically ruining the American labor movement," he asserted. "When the time comes that he will yell for a nominee, he will say: 'I am the man'."

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

IT IS STATED that the administration legislative leaders, after leaving the White House conference where the wreck of the extra session was reviewed, at the suggestion of the president, "planned to telegraph" the members of the conference committee on the farm bill to return in the holidays in order to get the new crop control bill in shape to report out the first week in January.

Perhaps they did "plan to telegraph" but there is reason to believe that they did not carry out the plan. One reason is that the man who would have to be recalled and without whom no business could be done is Senator Ellison Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the agricultural committee and also chairman of the conference committee. The chances of getting Senator Smith to come back to Washington for the purpose of advancing the time when this bill shall become a law are very remote, indeed. On the contrary, there is reason for feeling that Senator Smith's private—and not so private, at that—conviction is that it would be of considerable national benefit if the bill never becomes a law.

THOUGH he was its official sponsor in the senate, the character of his presentation and defense were such as to make it clear that neither in principle nor in detail did he approve its contents. It is also well known that Senator Smith resented the pressure upon him to produce such a bill; that it does not express his ideas; that he has grave doubts both as to its work-ability and its constitutionality. And as for the cost, he publicly proclaimed he had no idea whatsoever. Nor has anyone else.

UNDER the circumstances, the thought that under White House pressure, which he resents anyhow, Senator Smith will come tearing back from South Carolina to accelerate the speed of this measure is a little bit ridiculous. Indeed, though each house has passed a crop control bill and the enactment of some compromise between the two as a result of the conference committee's report seems "inevitable as the session ends, the opposition among the farmers, themselves, to the basic idea behind the bill grows more intense and outspoken. To such an extent is this true that it is different to see how it can be ignored by the administration.

IT WOULD SEEM that Secretary Wallace, for one, would be shaken by the strong indictment of his scheme, which comes, not from politicians or industrialists, but from the best type of farm leaders and farm organizations. Certainly, in the future he cannot say that he was not warned. For example, the National grange in a recent declaration on the subject, asserts that "there must be no legislation which would result in either immediate or eventual regimentation of the farmers." Continuing, the grange says of the senate bill, "if this bill should be enacted it would lay the basis for 100,000 law suits in the agricultural states every year. So far from being a help in the solution of the farm problem, there is justification for saying that it would render the plight of the farmer more desperate than before. In the opinion of the national grange both house and senate bills should be referred back to the committee and stripped of their compulsory features."

THE PENNSYLVANIA FARMER, one of the strongest agricultural journals in the country, in a recent editorial lambasts both bills, and in particular denounces Mr. Wallace's ever normal granary idea as an abnormality. Concluding, the editorial says: "We believe that nobody can even estimate the number of persons needed to administer such laws. Nor can the cost be determined in advance with loans, payments, inspections, personnel and other inevitable items to consider in a plan so complex and so broadly applied. The whole thing is a mess, a mixture of good intentions, fallacies, complexities, extravagance, and injustice—things which will deefat it in the end even if enacted and approved at this time."

IN THE FACE of such devastating denunciation and warnings from the farming interests, it seems as incredible that the administration should persist in pressing and that congress should pass this proposition. Yet, apparently before the end of January that is what is going to be done. As the time nears, more people appear to appreciate the monstrous quality and implications of the roposal. It is the combined product of administration dreamers and agricultural politicians. It is not understood in congress or in the country. It is another experiment made in spite of experience and the prediction is made by men whose farm judgment should be as sound as any, that, even if sustained by the court, it will be the course of a few years crumple through its own weight and complications, just as did the NRA, without benefitting the farmers and at almost ruinous cost to the country.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

his congressman about the housing problem in this stellar community, but a few letters could be written on the subject.

Finding a roof for the stellar head is a bigger problem than you'd think. Listening to a house-hunting star relate his woes in house-hunting is enough to stir you into a lather of sympathy. It isn't that there aren't plenty of houses. One hunter recently insisted to me that every house he saw was for rent—as soon as the owner learned the hunter was a movie star.

Just to illustrate, there's the case of France's Annabella. Annabella needed a large place, what with family, servants and retainers. Her agents selected a list of suitable homes, presented them for her choice. And Annabella, who is wiser now, went for a personal inspection. She went in her big car, driven by a chauffeur, and didn't bother to conceal the fact she was in pictures. Oddly, the prices quoted to her jumped from those quoted to the agents. She didn't take one. John Cromwell, who was leaving town for a while, leased his place to her out of sympathy.

Picture people travel so much now that one star frequently lets another rent his home during an absence. Colleen Moore's big estate, with swimming pool, tennis courts and all, has sheltered many another star, including Marlene Dietrich. The Countess di Frasso's place has been occupied in turn by Dietrich, the Jack Bennys and currently by Fannie Brice, Beatrice Lillie, Ann Pennington and Sophie Tucker, a merry foursome.

These travels, or just the urge to move, are responsible for the constantly changing addresses of screen celebrities. Garbo, who rented Neil Hamilton's place, has moved out and Jack Oakie has moved in. Garbo's housing requirements include, first of all, privacy. Alice Faye likes to move for a change of scenery. Many, like Ethel Merman, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, prefer apartments.

Most of the stars eventually build their own homes. Some who already own their own homes build others. Bing Crosby, Dick Powell, Paul Muni, Fredric March, Claudette Colbert, Fred MacMurray, Pat O'Brien are among the big taxpayers, and Kay Francis, long a renter of modest homes, is building her own in a canyon.

You can rent an apartment in Hollywood for from $25 to $1,000 or more a month, depending on your taste. If you're interested, of course, you'll want to look at this one: "Privately furnished apartment, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, living room, dining room, kitchen, daily maid service, etc. . . . $300."

Or this: "Owner's exquisite home, all carpeted, light furniture, 4 bedrooms, 4 baths, servant's quarters, playroom and bar, lovely grounds . . . $800 a month."

Want to buy? Here's your chance: "4 master bedrooms, 2 servant's rooms, chauffeur's quarters, large playroom, gorgeous bar, Turkish and electric baths, all-mirrored master dressing room, tiled pool, room for tennis courts . . . Air conditioned, earthquake-dry rot-termite-proofed . . . Neighbors Claudette Colbert, Raquel Torres, Irene Dunne, Walter Wanger" . . . Price complete, $85,000."

Sox Beat Yanks to Vosmik

New York Club Offered Five Players For Former Indian at Milwaukee.

By OSCAR RUHL

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

CLEVELAND was probably too hasty in disposing of Joe Vosmik. He was in more demand this year than last winter when the Indians presented him with a ticket to St. Louis. The Cleveland Bohemian boy was recently obtained by the Boston Red Sox, but several other clubs also dickered for the crack outfielder. Included among the bidders were the Yankees, who offered the Browns five players for Vosmik. But the Red Sox filed their bid first, and the St. Louis management appeared to like their proposition better. The identity of the players offered in exchange by the Yankees has not been revealed, but it is believed that Jake Powell was included in the group.

TURF'S STORY TOLD BY TWO HORSES

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Around the feats of two great horses is woven the 1937 chapter in American turf history.

Know the story of unbeaten War Admiral and the rise from rags to riches of Seabiscuit and you have the highlights of a year that saw bigger crowds, increased wagering, richer purses, the end of racing in Texas, a political argument that closed Narragansett park in the fall, and the passing of the famous Whitney Eton blue silks.

The fact that the Admiral and Seabiscuit, son and grandson, respectively, of Man O' War, never met, only served to make the plot more interesting and to furnish material for the "Hot Stove league." Seabiscuit, carrying the silks of Mrs. C. S. Howard of San Francisco, beat out the Admiral from Samuel Riddle's Philadelphia stable, for money-winning honors, but the latter was judged the horse o fthe year in a nation-wide poll of sports writers.

The story of War Admiral is one of a parade through all the important 3-year-old events in which he competed, tarting with an allowance race at Havre De Grace in the spring, the Riddle ace accounted for the Chesapeake stakes, Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes before an injury received in the latter forced him to the sidelines.

Returning to competition in the fall, he again started off with a triumph in an allowance race. He then came through in the Washington Handicap, a stake from which Seabiscuit was scratched because of track conditions, and the Pimlico special. The eight victories, all achieved with Louisville's "Flying Dutchman," Charlie Kurtsinger, in the saddle gave him earnings of $166,500 for the year.

WAR ADMIRAL
He Kicked Dust at 3-Year-Olds.

Seabiscuit's contribution to the story is a little more fantastic. He was so lightly regarded by James Fitzsimmons, trainer of such great champions as Gallant Fox, Omaha and Granville, that the Wheatley stable sold the son of Hard Tack to Mrs. Howard for $7,500 late in the 1936 season.

Almost overnight the manners of Seabiscuit changed. From a rogue he became a mild-mannered horse. With the change came victories. He dropped a nose decision to William DuPont, jr's Rosemont in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap and then started a string of eight straight triumphs, broken when he finished third behind Calumet Dick and Caballero 2nd in the $25,000 Narragansett special.

His only other defeat in 14 starts came when he bowed by a nose to William Ziegler's Esposa in the Bowie Handicap late in the season. Among his 11 triumphs was a dead heat with T. P. Morgan's Heelfly in the Laurel stakes. The enviable record sent the Howard 4-year-old into the winter season with earnings of $168,642.50.

Meder Rolls 704 As He Gets Medal

Youthful Mansfield Bowling Star Compiles Games of 233, 246 and 225 After Receiving A. B. C. Award for Rolling Perfect Tilt.

CLARENCE (SONNY) MEDER received his A. B. C. medal for his recent 300 game prior to the City Class A league matches at the Meder alleys last night, and the 20-year-old pin star really celebrated the occasion.

After Atty. John F. Kramer had made the presentation, Meder, bowling with the Miller Oldsmobiles, stepped out and plastered a 704 total to lead the individuals.

Meder rolled out games of 233, 246 and 225 to lead the Oldsmobiles to a 3015 total, which represented scores of 984, 1023 and 1008. The string was good for a pair of wins over the Metcalf Pure Oils, who came through with a 2851.

Brig Young was another Oldsmobile menace last night. He opened his string with a 254 to get off to a good start for a 654. Farrell Hipp led the Oils with an even 600.

Led by Hasting's 629 and Yingling's 628, the Liederkranz club smashed out a 2853 to take two decisions from the Meder Recreation team, which shot a 2780. Flood had a 608 for the losers.

In the other match, the Lumbermens Mutuals scored a 2758, which was good for a clean sweep over the Roma Lunch.

Tygers Give Canton Scare, But Lose Hot Battle, 24-17

Lyons, Lewis and Hallabrin Outstanding for Mansfield as They Bow to Bigger Opponents; Trail at Half, 12 to 6.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE 1937-38 basketball edition of Mansfield high dropped its second cage decision of the season last night, bowing to the classy Canton McKinley Bulldogs, 24 to 17, on the City auditorium hardwood at Canton.

Mansfield entered the melee as the underdogs, but gave the Pups a real scare before it was over. The rangy Canton club was unable to cut loose with any consistent scoring until the second stanza and even after it had built up a lead was pressed to the limit by the aggressive Mansfielders.

Coach Russ Murphy's proteges turned down numerous opportunities to score from outside the foul line, being content to work the ball in before attempting to register.

Lewis Troublesome.

McKinley, which last week edged the touted Akron West combine, had trouble throughout trying to gain and keep possession of the ball. Freddie Lewis was particularly outstanding in his ability to snatch the ball when it looked like Canton was on its way for a bucket. Jack Lyons was the point-getter for the Mansfield club, pacing the team with eight points.

The Tygers held the lead twice in the opening frame, but failed to connect from the field during the second chapter while Canton slipped in three to snatch a lead it never relinquished.

After the Bulldogs took the opening lead on Fiore's rebound, the Tygers knotted the score on Lyons' shot from the middle of the court and then Lewis put his team ahead on a foul conversion.

Bob Wolfe, one of the Canton club's outstanding performers last night, again gave his club the lead with a sucker shot. Johnny Hallabrin, who turned in his best performance of the season, shoved Mansfield back into a 5-4 lead, scoring from the center of the court. It was the last time the losers led. Wolfe, who topped the individual scoring with 11 points, dribbled in and Canton shot into a lead they were able to hold until the final gun.

While holding Mansfield to a free throw by Lewis, Canton began to add to its advantage and at half time was leading 12-6.

Play on Even Terms.

Mansfield played the favorites on even terms during the second half, but the lead the winners had built up in the second period was too big to overcome.

The Bulldogs went into the final quarter holding a 20 to 12 lead and coasted through.

THEATER

MAE WEST'S next starring vehicle will be "Every Day's a holiday." . . . For the first time since they made a hit in "Twentieth Century," two years ago, Carole Lombard and John Barrymore are working together. . . . J. Carrol Naish, famed for his menace roles in pictures, was, at one time, a boy soprano in a New York church choir. . . . Lew Ayres boasts of seven separate hobbies—astronomy, music, woodcarving, amateur photography, sculpture, collecting first editions and gathering old phonograph records. . . . Philip Ahn, Chinese actor, who divides the romantic interest with Anna May Wong in "Daughter of Shanghai," speaks English and French—but not a word of Chinese.

"Rosalie."

Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell are co-starred for the first time in the musical production, "Rosalie," opening at the Ohio theater Friday. The musical also includes such favorites as Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Ray Bolger, Ilona Massey, Billy Gilbert and Reginald Owen. The story concerns the love and adventures of a West Point football hero who follows his girl to Europe only to discover she's a princess and engaged to wed a prince. He immediately returns to the United States. A revolution forces the princess, her father and her fiance to flee to America. They visit West Point and request that the hero act as their guide. The balance of the picture follows the series of events that bring them together again.

"She Loved a Fireman."

Some spectacular flame-fighting will be thrown upon the screen of the Madison theater beginning Friday when "She Loved A Fireman," opens a two-day engagement. Heading the cast are Dick Foran, Ann Sheridan and Robert Armstrong. Foran plays a rookie fireman who comes under the command of a hard-boiled captain. The two become bitter enemies even though Dick falls in love with the captain's daughter. The captain has Foran transferred in order to keep him away from his daughter, but the three meet again when a big fire breaks out on the waterfront. Brian Aherne and Olivia de Havilland in "The Great Garrick," plays through today.

"Missing Witnesses."

How a big city was cleared of its racketeers by honest investigation and honest prosecutors forms the theme of "Missing Witnesses," melodrama featuring John Litel, Dick Purcell and Jean Dale, which opens at the Majestic theater Friday. The picture tells the story of the process of getting witnesses out of the way who might testify damagingly against desperate crooks. The second film on the twin bill will be "Headin' East," starring Buck Jones. Jones plays the role of a cowboy who attempts to break up a ring that threatens disaster to California fruit growers. Supporting the star are Ruth Coleman, Shemp Howard and Donald Douglas.

"Partners In Crime."

Two veteran comedians, Lynne Overman and Roscoe Karns join forces with two pretty girls in dealing with laughs and thrills in "Partners in Crime," opening at the Ritz Friday. The film depicts the adventures of two pals who get mixed up in a crooked city election. Their avid efforts to support the honest candidate result in a series of incidents which land one of them in jail and involves the other in a love affair with a girl who is working for the crooked outfit. The Three Mesquiteers in "Range Defenders," completes the double feature. The Mesquiteers are portrayed by Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune.

DEALINGS SLOW AS LIST MOVES IN FRACTIONS

Traders Find Little Cheer In Reports Emanating From Washington.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market leaders shifted in varying directions today, although moves generally were in fractions. Dealings were slow and losers in the majority near the second hour.

Trading forces apparently found little cheer in word from Washington the administration will insist on putting through side-tracked "reform" measures at the regular session of congress next month.

Tax selling and switching continued the order of the day in the share list. Bonds and commodities were moderately irregular.

Holders of rail shares, while still confident the Interstate Commerce commission would approve a boost in freight rates, noted early estimates of last week's car loadings indicated another decrease in the total to slightly under 600,000. The decline would be due principally to the passing of the peak in crop shipments.

Notwithstanding the recent adverse performance of tobacco stocks, attention was given official figures disclosing cigarette output in November, but the eighteenth consecutive month, established a new high.

INSURGENTS MAP NEW OFFENSIVE

Smash Through Government Lines Holding Teruel.

HENDAYE, FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER—(AP)—A column of insurgent artillery and troops today smashed through the government siege of the military garrison at Teruel, a radio dispatch reported, adding that a counter offensive was being prepared.

The message from the Teruel radio station, received at insurgent headquarters at Irun, said the garrison and some of the civil population still were resisting the government assaults.

Barricaded in a seminary overlooking the ancient Aragon city, insurgent troops had made their stand after a surprise government attack drove them out of the city in a blizzard.

BOUND OVER IN POLICE SLAYING

Cleveland Youths to Face Trial in Killing of 2 Officers.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Four youths charged with the first degree murder of Patrolmen Gerald Bode and Virgil Bayne Saturday night, were held to the grand jury today.

They were: Carl Ferritto, 20, named as the actual triggerman in the shooting; Neal Palatrone, 18; Albert Lipp, 27, and Anthony Gallina, 18.

Anthony Liberatore, 17, father of a 16-months-old child, will be arragined in juvenile court Jan. 6.

Liberatore's wife, Mary, 17, and Miss Marcella Rusowsky, 20, were held under $10,000 bond as material witnesses.

"I wrote my own Ticket"

"I was temporarily hard pressed for funds besides having a lot of burdensome payments and scattered bills to annoy me that stood in my way."

"It was a pleasant surprise to find a concern so willing to finance my needs on the kind of terms I could well afford. It was just like writing my own ticket. I took the matter in my own hands, summed up my needs, stated the amount I required and The City Loan helped me out of a tough situation."

VALUE RECEIVED

A loan usually costs less than the lack of it. As on any other commodity, charges on a loan are based fairly on the value of the service you receive. The hundreds of loans made at The City Loan every day accomplish many things and serve many worthy purposes, each a typical case of "value received". Ask at our office about the loan you need. JOINS FAMILY

Painter, Pardoned Banker, To Be Home For Christmas.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Kenyon V. Painter, former Cleveland bank director who served 24 days of a one to 30-year sentence in Ohio penitentiary for misapplication of funds, is coming home for Christmas, it was reported at his residence today.

The 72-year-old capitalist's "imminent danger of death" parole by Gov. Martin L. Davey last Oct. 15 is being investigated by a grand jury. He is now in a sanitarium.

tempting to bring about quick adjournment in order to forestall the senate inquiry, but he added:

"This does not mean that I would hesitate to take any action that the circumstances warrant if the senate continues to fail in its primary duty."

The governor apparently referred to the administration's "must" legislation—the 1938 relief program and the supplemental appropriations bill, both approved by the house.

It was charged administration forces tried—and failed—to persuade the house to reconvene today to be ready for immediate action on a relief program if one were passed in the senate.

The administration, it was charged, attempted to line up sufficient votes to push through the house-approved relief program in the senate yesterday. Had the move succeeded, it was pointed out, the governor could then have declared the session at an end.

With the death of the session, all committees would have ceased to function, including the investigating committee.

Instead of taking immediate action on the $12,000,000 house-approved relief program, the senate referred the legislation to its finance committee where it will lie, presumably, until the inquiry gets well under way.

Referring to the investigation, the governor expressed "hope" that the investigators "have a good time and provide an abundance of entertainment at the expense of the taxpayers."

"It will be especially illuminating if they will include certain members of the senate," he added.

AWAITS STATE RELIEF CRISIS

Assembly Won't Set Up Permanent Program Until Later, Lutz Predicts.

independent life of the pioneer with the complex, dependent living habits of today, adding that the trend is to "long distance planning" in economic and government with the responsibility of government growing less.

"Partly through necessity, the federal government is bringing its fingers down on individuals and business and the tendency is to shift the responsibility to the other fellow," Laribee said.

"The trustee and clerk are not in that class, however," he added. "They are so close to the people that they have to shoulder the burden of local government."

C. G. Tugend, of Worthington township, who presided last night for the last time as chairman of the trustees-clerks group, criticized the present relief set-up which "gives county and state help to some townships and forces others to solve their own problems."

He urged the passing of a 50-50 matching plan for state relief, with the local communities required to contribute half of the relief funds.

"Relief has increased 700 per cent in Worthington township since June 1," Tugend said, "and we have had to do some fancy juggling of funds to handle the problem."

Elected to the county board of education in November, Tugend will retire as a trustee Jan. 1. The trustees and clerks organization will elect new officers early in 1938.

HOPES FOR PROGRAM FADE

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Hopes faded today for enactment by the Ohio legislature of a 1938 poor relief program before the end of this year.

Members of the house of representatives went home for the holidays, and Speaker Frank Uible said they would hold no working session until after Jan. 1.

The house members had approved and sent to the senate a 1938 relief program which would make available $12,000,000 for local governments and require them to put up an additional $3,250,000.

The senate, itself and its president lashed by Gov. Martin L. Davey in a statement accusing the majority of failing to do their duty, remained at work, devoting its attention to the relief question.

Even should the senate approve the relief program passed by the house, it undoubtedly would make changes which would require that the legislation go back to the house for concurrence in the amendments.

Apparently believing the house would remain in session, senate leaders decided to give primary committee consideration today to the house-approved relief bills.

Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder, who had considered side-tracking relief until Feb. 1, agreed to cooperate with Sen. Keith Lawrence, Democratic floor leader, to complete 1938 relief legislation before the end of the year.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XIV

Karen shook her head. "No. I said that so you'd see me. I came to New York to go on the stage and that's more important to me than Tommy's cold-blooded other, made to spite your mother. I won't marry him, but the way he feels now, hurt and bitter, he may do anything. In a way, this is good for him because he knows that his money can't buy you or me."

She went to the door as Marion arose. "You can make quite a man of Tommy or—or you can send him to Paris to try to forget you in other girls. If I were you . . ."

"I'm going to call him as soon as you leave if Mother doesn't come in!" Her eyes were shining. "Oh, thank you."

On the street shadowed by an approaching storm, Karen walked quickly. She had sent Jerry back to Harriston. She hoped she had brought Marion and Tommy together. "But I'm still drifting. Philip is out of town. Roxanne and I are drifting."

She could smile now as Philip and Roxanna had at the high-hearted Karen who had come to New York a few weeks ago. She could smile at herself and at blasted hopes. To be a great actress . . . to fall in love . . . Two dreams that had caused her to reject Jerry, two dreams she had been determined to follow. One had come true, meeting Philip and loving him. Aunt Hetty had not said that perhaps the one man she would meet some day and love and think she could not live without might not love her.

Could Aunt Hetty answer her question. "What do you do with love that isn't wanted?"

She had to run a block in the rain. In the box there was a letter from Cora Hillman. Karen read it on the elevator. In part Cora wrote, "Well, darling, prepare yourself. It seems that Mary Catherine has done a good job of catching Jerry on the rebound. He gave her her ring last night and the telephone wires are buzzing this morning. But perhaps I shouldn't be catty. She's a nice girl and a pretty girl and she'll make him a fine wife. I hear that old man Forbes, that old autocrat, approves. He's been afraid young Jerry might fall in love with a girl out of town and leave Harriston. Now the old gentleman can be assured that Jerry will step into his shoes as the town's first citizen. They say her ring is gorgeous. As for us, Ted gets his vacation soon, which we'll probably spend at the seashore. It will have to be an inexpensive vacation. There are lots of things we plan to do to a house that is not only covered with roses but mortgages also. We're terribly happy. That will be all for this time as I must get to the telephone and do my duty about telling the world about Jerry and Mary Catherine."

The elevator stopped with a jerk. In the mirror Karen saw her sober face shaded by the large hat, saw that it was thinner and that there were faint shadows beneath her eyes. Again she thought, "Is it worthwhile—this fight and struggle?" At this time in the afternoon Harriston was at its laziest beneath the hot summer sun. Housewives slept until it was time to prepare dinner; the younger set stuffed bathing suits until little linen bags and drove to the beach and stayed all afternoon. Karen felt pangs of nostalgia and envy.

Roxanne was sitting at the window on which the rain was beating. She was mending stockings. The room was gloomy.

Karen said, "Jerry is going to marry Mary Catherine Halsey, Roxanne. I sent Jerry back to her. And I've just come from seeing Marion Leland. She loves Tommy. She'd be good for him."

Roxanne bit the thread with her small white teeth. She smiled "Aren't you the little fixer?" she asked.

They went out to dinner after the storm was over. And they had been back only a few minutes when a telegram came for Karen. It was from Tommy who had written, "Marion I married stop away on honeymoon stop blessings from mother and father stop thanks for everything."

Passing it to Roxanne to read, Karen said with a smile, "You called me the little fixer. I talked myself out of a part in the Tappen play. Tommy and Marion are on their honeymoon and he won't be here to introduce me to Tappen."

"You gave them their chance and lost yours," Roxanne said. She put her arm around Karen and smiled. "But you'll get yours. I'll probably bawl like a baby but I want to be there when you do. Applause won't be enough. I'll—I'll whistle from the gallery."

Several weeks passed and while the lives of Karen and Roxanne were unaltered, their friendship was strengthened. Her first nervousness gone completely, Karen appeared and sang on the hotel roof nightly. And each evening Roxanne went to her new job in a downtown night club. They took their meals together, shopped for new clothes together, and twice went to the public beach to swim.

Bernda Bonds' play had closed. Had Philip gone to England? At various times and at various places Karen asked herself that question. And one day lying on the beach in the warm sun she was oblivious to everything around her, so clear was the picture in her mind of Philip and Lilyan together. Why did it hurt so much, the mental picture of Philip with the girl he adored?

She got up quickly and went into the water. And Roxanne, her yellow hair drying in the sun, her arms hugging her tanned knees, knew that Karen could no longer bear to think about Philip Ashley. She thought, "She doesn't say much about him but she thinks about him all the time."

Roxanne tought of Philip and she thought of Bill. There would never be any peace for her as long as Bill was somewhere needing her and she didn't know where he was. There were times when the suspense was so great she thought of going to Florida and looking for him—Florida because it had been the last place he had been—where he had disappeared from the ship. But he had planned well. Bill McGrath had gone to Florida but a man with a false name had remained.

Too proud to be a burden, he preferred for those he loved and those who loved him to think him dead. But his parents, who wrote to her frequently, were still convinced he was alive. "Alive," she thought now. "Nearly blind." And because she couldn't think about Bill any longer she got up and joined Karen in the water.

Mary Catherine, the girl Jerry was going to marry, came to New York and telephone Karen. They had lunch together.

A tiny girl with short brown curls, wearing a printed frock with a blue straw sailor hat, she looked across the table at Karen with astonished blue eyes. Her ring, a large solitaire, glittered in the sunlight coming through the restaurant window.

"You're singing in a night club!" she cried. "Why, that's thrilling! Nobody in Harriston knows that."

They would know it now, Karen thought. Beneath the wide black hat her eyes were amused. Mary Catherine Halsey had been one of the girls jealous of Jerry's devotion to her and she suspected that one of the chief reasons Mary Catherine had called her was to impress her with the elegance of the trousseau she was buying and to give her the feeling that she, Mary Catherine, had won and that Karen had lost Harriston's most eligible young man.

That afternoon she shopped with Mary Catherine. "Do you think Jerry will like this, Karen?" she asked often with a hint of sarcasm in her voice.

How quickly Jerry had fallen out of love with her, Karen thought, when he knew that marriage, at least for the present, was out of the question! "I could be Mary Catherine, buying my trousseau. Instead, in all these weeks, I've gotten nowhere and I'm terribly in love with a man who will bring his wife back from England with him."

Mary Catherine returned to Harriston and no long later Cora Hillman sent Karer a photograph of the bride and groom as they came out of the church after the wedding. She showed it to Roxanne.

"Don't be sorry it isn't you," Roxanne said. "Some people have an engine in them that won't let them stop until they've reached their goal. You're one of those people. I don't know whether you inherit the stage or not but if you do," she grinned impudently at Karen, "one of your small town ancestors must have yearned to do Hamlet." She passed the snapshot back to Karen. "You want to be a great actress, don't you?"

Karen's clear eyes softened. "No, Roxanne. More than anything in the world, I want Philip. And that night at Tommy's I made a fool of myself. He was furious with me. And that night when I wanted to look lovely for him, I was ugly." Karen was speaking with such feeling that Roxanne's eyes did not waver from her face. "It must be wonderful to be loved by Philip. He knows so much. He always says the right things. I gave up Jerry and a millionaire playboy I might have married on the rebound because even if I can't have Philip, I'll be faithful to him. That doesn't make much sense, does it—being faithful to a man who's going to marry another girl? But when I'm with him, I feel I'm married to him. That's how much I feel I belong to him."

Roxanne said, "We've both got a right to sing the kind of songs we sing. I used to think that the way I loved Bill was the deepest feeling any girl ever had for a man. I didn't think any other girl ever cared that much. But you care for Philip that way, too. He's a lucky guy to have your love, Karen, even though he doesn't know it."

With her back to Roxanne, Karen said, "He doesn't want my love."

The next morning Tommy Nolting called.

"Karen? This is the bridegroom," he said gaily. "We're just back from a swell honeymoon and living in the new house. I don't know why I bought such a big house for two people!" He sounded very happy.

"How is Marion?"

"Great! She's bossing things already—down in the kitchen telling the cook how I like my eggs! We want you to come out. We owe a lot to you. But telling you how swell married life is isn't what I called about. Remember I promised to introduce you to Bernie Tappen?"

Did she remember? "Yes, I remember, Tommy?"

"Well, he's in town. And there's a part in his new play that's perfect for you. The girl's beautiful and dramatic. How about meeting Marion and me for lunch and we'll go to see him this afternoon? I'll fix everything."

Her heart seemed to turn over. "I'm practically there!"

Her hands shook as she dressed. But each dark curl was in place when she pulled the wide hat over them. She couldn't fail! Philip would see! Always thinking of Philip . . . He probably had not thought of her since she had driven off from Tommy's that night and he had asked, "Is it good night or good-bye?" But some day he would see even though that some day would be too late for him to love her. "If I stopped to realize that he will never love me," she thought, "there'd be no reason to anything."

Obviously Tommy and Marion were very happy. Even in a crowded restaurant Tommy held the slim hand that wore the costly solitaire and the diamond circlet. So new, Karen thought, as new as their marriage. May they always be as they were today . . .

Tommy said, "Now to get down to brass stacks. Karen . . ."

MANSFIELDER'S BOOK ADDED BY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mrs. Meisse's 'Modernistic Flower Arranging' Among New Volumes.

Included among the new books available at the Mansfield public library this week is one by a Mansfield author, Mrs. Barbara Sagel Meisse, 32 Glenwood boulevard.

Mrs. Meisse's book, "Modernistic Flower Arranging," suggests ways of obtaining rich and artistic decorative effects with a minimum of expense for flower material. There are 32 full-page photographs as illustrations of flower composition.

Other releases received by the library include "Last Flight," by the late Amelia Earhart, famous aviatrix. The book contains the story of her early life, her famous flights and includes the journals she sent back from her ill-fated trip which was to have been a world flight.

Victoria Sackville-West has written a biography of her grandmother, "Pepita," a Spanish dancer. The book was developed from accounts given by witnesses at a court inquiry after Pepita's death, held to settle an estate.

Other New Books.

Other non-fiction:

"Makers of Christianity, Vol. II. From Alfred the Great to Schleiermacher, by John T. McNeill.

"Makers of Christianity, Vol. III. From John Cotton to Lyman Abbott" by William Warren Sweet.

"Trade Centers and Trade Routes" by Van Cleef.

"Gales, Ice and Men" by Wead.

"Apes, Men and Morons" by Hooten.

"New-Method Estimators Handbook."

"What's New in Home Decoration" by Fales.

"Collected Poems" by Sara Teasdale.

"Men and Forces of Our Time" by Marcu.

"Angry Dust; an Autobiography" by Gubsky.

Reference Books:

"Gramophone Shop Encyclopedia of Recorded Music," compiled by Robert Donaldson Darrell.

"Familiar Quotations" compiled by John Bartlett, edited by Christopher Morley and Lovella D. Everett.

"Home Book of Shakespeare Quotations; Being also a Concordance & a Glossary of the Unique Words & Phases in the Plays and Poems" edited by Burton Egbert Stevenson.

The fiction books include: "Home for Christmas" by Lloyd C. Douglas. It is the story of a family's reunion. The scene is a country farmhouse and the characters are prosperous city folk who once again capture the frolicking joy of youth.

"Fables for Parents" by Dorothy Canfield Fisher is a collection of short stories which in themselves contain the essence and spirit of eternal childhood, an acute awareness and a touching simplicity. The parents and grandparents created in these tales bring a nostalgia for days long passed, and a sense of responsibility toward the present.

Hugh Walpole's novel about the life of an English author, 'John Cornelius" is so cleverly done as to make the reader believe such a person actually did exist. The book presents glimpses of life in a bygone England.

Other Fiction:

"Envoy Extraordinary" by Oppenheim.

"Jane of Lantern Hill" by Montgomery.

"Mystery of Mr. Jessop" by Funshon.

"With Spurs" by Mann.

206 of County's 6,000 Dogs Have New License Tags

New 1938 tags have been purpurchased for only 206 of the more than 6,000 dogs in Richland county, records at the office of County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe showed today.

The tags, which went on sale at the auditor's office early in December, may be purchased until Jan. 20 without penalty. After that date, a tag will cost $1 more unless it is for a dog brought into the state after the deadline. In that event, the owner has 30 days in which to buy the license.

Cost of the tags is $1 each for male and spayed female dogs and $3 for females.

Receipts from the tags are used to pay animal claims, the salaries of the dog warden and his deputies, for the maintenance of the county dog pound and the clerical costs incident to issuing the tags and recording licenses. Any surplus funds go to the humane society.

SAFEST DRIVING AGE 32 TO 37

But He Must Be Without Domestic Troubles, Researcher Says.

AMES, Ia. —(AP)— Dr. A. R. Lauer, Iowa State college psychologist and traffic safety worker, describes the "safe" driver as:

A man without domestic troubles, between 32 and 37; above five feet ten inches in height and weighting between 170 and 180 pounds.

Dr. Lauer, who has tested 15,000 drivers in several states, says the person "who is above the average in mentality, physique and personality, or at least is neither brute nor shrimp, Ph.D. nor ignoramus, routine bookkeeper or scientific genius," has a pretty good chance of being a good driver.

The number of air traffic control stations has been increased to eight. They are at Pittsburgh, Detroit, Washington, Burbank, Oakland, Newark, Cleveland and Chicago. Each operates approximately 16 hours a day.

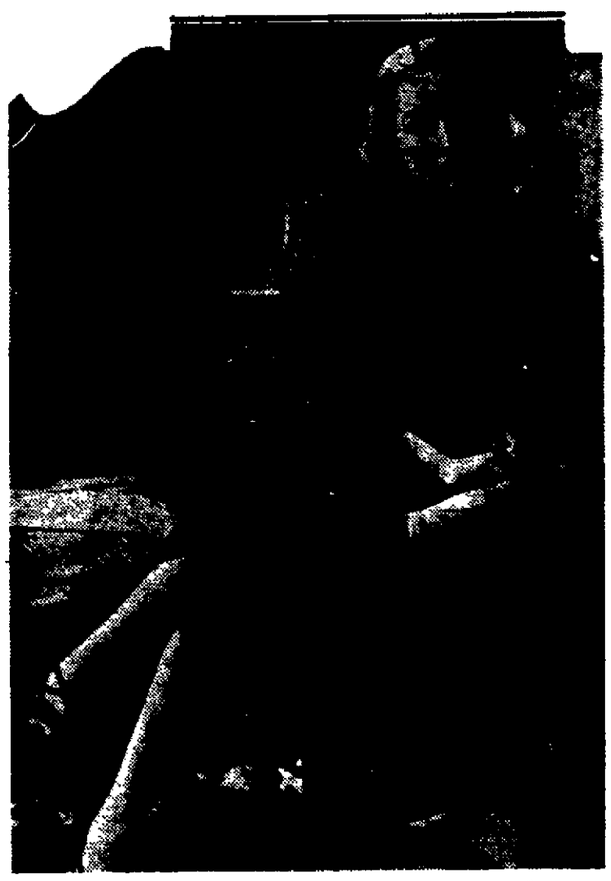
UNPRESSED

Gathers are still important in Paris, but many couturiers are using unpressed pleats in their newer dresses.

Silk Braid Adds Interest



Ann Sothern, screen actress, wears a pencil-slim dress of black wool crepe. Color and excitement is gained by the interesting black silk braid scroll design on the light-weight wool jacket of scarlet.

Spoiled Girl Angry Over Broken Date

By VIRGINIA LEE

M. M. admits that she is a badly spoiled girl. Because this is the case, she isn't taking the peculiar actions of a young man she met recently very well. He asked her for a date and then did not show up. Used to having her own way, she didn't like it a little bit.

Quite accidentally later she met him on a blind date and he was friendly, but said nothing about "standing her up" previously. M. M. says she was "sulky and independent" all evening, and went out to ride with another boy. Beyond making a sarcastic remark, on the way home, that his feet ached from walking about looking for her, her escort didn't refer to her actions. At parting, however, he begged to see her again. She gave him no encouragement, she writes, but now asks me what to do?

When you know your fault it should help you to correct it, my dear. You can try not to act like a spoiled child. Don't make it an excuse for childish behavior.

Now sitting and crying half the night is not a very sensible proceeding, you know, so why do it? You certainly are not lacking in gray matter, so I'd advise that you use a little of it and straighten this thing out.

Why didn't you ask the boy how come he failed to show up after asking you for a date? I know, of course, you were too proud to let him think you cared enough to mention it. My guess would be that the whole thing was a misunderstanding. In that case he was not so rude as you thought he was. If you had found out how it happened that he didn't show up at that time, you could better determine how to treat him in the future. If he deliberately "stood you up", he deserves no further consideration. If it was a misunderstanding, he was not to blame and should be forgiven.

Do you expect to see him again? If so, why don't you have a heart to heart talk—at least a frank talk, like two sensible people—and try to find out what manner of man he is.

Crying never does anyone any good—only relieves overwrought feelings once in awhile—and it is much better to put your little noddle to work to straighten out your puzzle instead of indulging in "tears, idle tears."

HOPEFUL: Yes, I think there is a chance of this boy friend of yours coming back to you, Hopeful. He seems to have had no special reason for leaving you. Maybe he felt he was growing too fond of you and had better not see you for awhile. At any rate, go out with other boys, and be friendly to this one when you meet, and see what happens. I hope your mother is better. She is fortunate to have such a sweet daughter to care for her.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I COULD have clapped my hands in riotous applause at Dicky's success in banishing the remorse that Noel was beginning to feel about the reception practiced upon his father.

It was, of course, the most natural thing in the world for him to feel remorseful with the uncertainty of his father's fate before him. Every minute of delay in hearing from the overdue plane which the elder Veritzen had chartered was, I know, torture to the sensitive boy, who, in common with all high-minded people, was forgetting the injuries done him, and remembering only that his persecutor might be no longer in the land of the living.

But Dick had struck just the right note in reminding him of his duty to Mary He would lament no more that he had not himself taken a plane, no matter how much he might scourge himself for other real or fancied derelictions of duty toward his father.

With his face pallid, his eyes tortured, he yet managed to present a courageous front, almost. I felt, as if he were a soldier going over the top.

"They will telephone you if they have any news?" he asked Dicky.

No News of Plane.

"By Jove, I forgot," Dicky returned, making for the door. "I gave them that number of Dad's. They may be ringing their fool heads off, and nobody could hear them in this end of the house. I'll run over and see if they're ringing and I'll get them on that phone, if they're not, and tell them to ring us down here.

We waited dolorously until he came back with the announcement that there was still no news of the plane Philip Veritzen had chartered I saw Noel's lips twist with anguish, and knew that he was realizing his utter helplessness in the face of this possible tragedy.

"Uncle Dicky!" he said, for he has adopted Mary's affectionate greeting of her uncle.

"Yes, my boy," Dicky said encouragingly.

"Would you be willing to swap cars with me for a few days?"

"Of course, but what's the big idea?"

Noel to Join Search.

"Why! that clutch job on mine won't be done until tomorrow night, and I feel as if I ought to be doing something. If I had a car I could get to Mineola in a couple of hours, and perhaps they'd let me go aboard one of the planes you said they'd be sending out searching for Father, if he doesn't turn in pretty soon."

He was trying hard to be disciplined and composed, but he could not keep his voice quite steady, and Dicky hurried to the rescue.

"Surely you may have the car, and I'll go with you, if you like"

"Oh!" Noel demurred. "I could not let you in for that."

"Save your breath, Noel," Mary advised briskly. "If Uncle Dicky makes up his mind to go with you, nothing you could say would stop him. But it won't be necessary. I'm going with you myself. There won't be any need of anybody else. They'll have men along. You won't need another man, but you will need me."

"You musn't go," Noel said, but there was no decision in his tone.

"But I'm going if you go. Do you think for one minute I'd let you go alone on an errand like this?"

Her voice was high, lilting, and there was a lambent glory in her face which Noel saw, and seeing, caught her in his arms.

Fear Jack Leslie.

"Oh! Mary, Mary!" he choked with his head against hers. "My own true girl!"

But Dicky and I were exchanging troubled glances Ordinarily there would have been no reason why Mary should not go with Noel upon any journey, but the realizatoin of Jack Leslie at large made her going something which we could not sanction.

And then, the telephone in the hall shrilled, and we all fairly jumped, so taut were our nerves. Noe sprang to answer it, but Dicky put him gently aside.

"I'll answer," he said. "Remember, now, you must both be brave if this is bad news."

Exercise Too If You Want Firm Flesh

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

SLENDERNESS, softly-rounded, is the modern keynote of figure loveliness! Men nowadays do not admire fatness. And neither do they admire flabbiness, for flabbiness is definitely destructive of figure and beauty. A good many women complain, however, that when they attempt to reduce, their flesh becomes soft and flabby. In such an instance, a woman may rest assured that there is something wrong with her reducing routine. For no good reducing method should ever leave the body in a flabby condition.

A really well-planned course of reduction will not leave the flesh soft and flabby — provided, of course, that the instructions are followed to the letter. But that means that no half-way measures will do, if good results are desired!

Exercise Not Vigorous Enough.

If, after following a really good reducing course, your flesh shows any flabbiness, there is but one explanation. And that is that you have not exercised as thoroughly and vigorously as you should. This tendency to under-exercise is the commonest cause of flabby flesh. For exercise must be executed vigorously and systematically, not only to force the muscles to destroy their fatty excesses, but also to fortify the muscular tissues and make them firm.

If a girl is too lazy to exercise each day, she shouldn't expect to achieve figure perfection. She'll lose weight, of course, by dieting. But she's got to exercise, too, for figure beauty doesn't depend upon slenderness alone. The body must be firm, lithe and solid, if it is to be considered attractive.

Another common cause of flabbiness is the taking of questionable and unreliable pills, medicines or cathartics for reducing purposes. The majority of such drugs cause a loss of weight because they upset the processes of digestion and assimilation in the body. As a result, less benefit is derived from the foods eaten.

It is not safe to disturb digestion and assimilation in this manner. And such habits may eventually result in illness and stomach and intestinal disorders. If you wish to reduce, follow a sane and well-balanced dieting routine, rather than a fad diet. And be sure that you do plenty of proper exercising, so that your body will be molded on harmonious lines, and your muscular tissue will remain firm and smooth.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Dec. 24.

According to certain adverse configurations on this day, it is likely that employment and commonplace matters may have a setback or impediment. But there are excellent auguries for finances, gain, expanding influences and benefits through elders, persons of importance and friendly co-operation. Much pleasure and festivity is noted, with romance and adventure at high tension.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of expansion and progress, with finances stimulated and business advanced through elders, important contacts with large interests and through personal popularity and good fellowship. However, there may be obstacles and delays to contend with resolutely and hopefully.

A child born on this day may be capable, studious and ambitious, but may have obstacles and frustrations to combat in life. Its personal popularity and kindly and friendly nature will definitely assist in this effort.

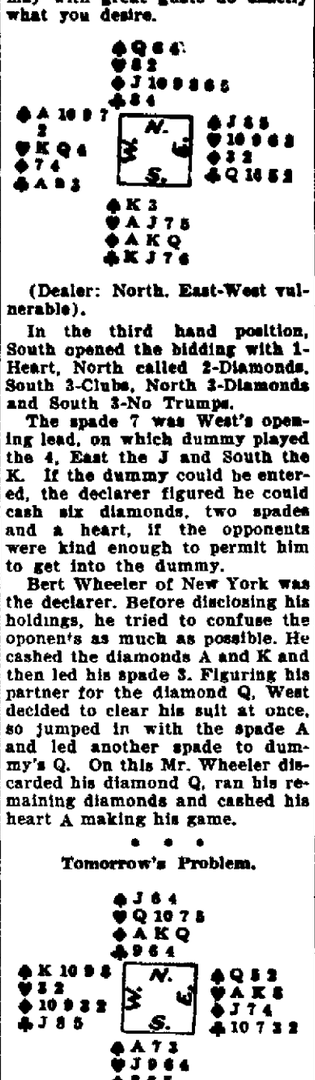
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CREATING AN ILLUSION

CREATING illusions is part of the job of a good bridge player. An opponent will refuse to lead to an entry for a setup suit in the dummy if he can size up that situation, but if you can make it appear as if the suit is blocked, he may with great gusto do exactly what you desire.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable).

In the third hand position, South opened the bidding with 1-Heart, North called 2-Diamonds, South 3-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds and South 3-No Trumps.

The spade 7 was West's opening lead, on which dummy played the 4, East the J and South the K. If the dummy could be entered, the declarer figured he could cash six diamonds, two spades and a heart, if the opponents were kind enough to permit him to get into the dummy.

Bert Wheeler of New York was the declarer. Before disclosing his holdings, he tried to confuse the oponents as much as possible. He cashed the diamonds A and K and then led his spade 3. Figuring his partner for the diamond Q, West decided to clear his suit at once, so jumped in with the spade A and led another spade to dummy's Q. On this Mr. Wheeler discarded his diamond Q, ran his remaining diamonds and cashed his heart A making his game.

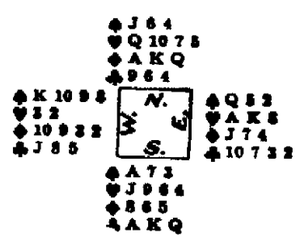
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable)

What is the correct defense against South's 3-No Trumps contract?

Never roll out pie crust immediately after removing from the refrigerator. Take it out of refrigerator, about an hour before using and you will have a better crust.

Save the juice from canned pineapple and liquid from maraschino cherries to use when making fruit punch.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1937.

It was rather nice of Winter to start in such a Spring-like way.

Greetings: No. 17 Western Union or No. 302 of the Postal series.

Children born on December 25 soon learn that they are at a considerable disadvantage in the matter of birthday gifts.

There will be those who are filled with the Christmas spirit and those who show the effect of too much Christmas spirits.

A Bellefontaine man who has played Santa Claus at public celebrations for a number of years is being sued for divorce—apparently his wife doesn't believe in him.

Empire Looks To Future.

MANSFIELD'S prospects for 1938, and later years, are definitely brightened by announcement of the $250,000 construction plan of the Empire Sheet & Tin Plate company.

Following a period of uncertainty, Empire has within the past few years been developed along substantial lines and has come to occupy an important place in Mansfield's industrial roster.

Steps toward further modernization of production methods, as contemplated in this program of construction and equipment, will result in Empire being enabled to even further advance the enviable reputation it has already attained for the excellent quality of its products.

In complimenting Empire on the spirit of enterprise thus being displayed, it seems also fitting to congratulate the people of Mansfield on their good fortune in numbering Empire among this city's large and progressive industrial enterprises.

Frank B. Kellogg's Great Service.

THE death of Frank B. Kellogg, at the age of 81, removes from the American scene a man who, through a long public career, represented the kind and quality of statesmanship of which the United States needs more.

As former senator, diplomat, secretary of state and world court judge, Kellogg in each instance measured up to the great responsibilities imposed upon him and performed valuable service to his country and to the world.

In all probability Mr. Kellogg will be longest remembered in history for the part he played in attempting to assure permanent world peace through the joining of 59 nations in the Kellogg-Briand pact to renounce war as an instrument of international policy.

That this promotion of the doctrine of peace came too early in the progress of civilization to accomplish the ends for which it was intended is no reflection on the men who carried it through or on the nations that have conscientiously tried to conform to terms of the pact.

It is fortunate for the present and the future that America has produced some such men as Frank B. Kellogg—clear-thinking, forward-looking statesmen, broadly visioning national and world needs, yet tempering idealism with practicality.

Nothing Done—At Great Expense.

SELDOM has there been a more ludicrous spectacle in American government than is found in the 36-day special session of Congress—now adjourned without having done any of the things for which it was unnecessarily called together.

During this special session Congress did, of course, authorize the payment of about $225.000 for transportation of senators and representatives to and from Washington—at the atrocious and indefensible rate of 20 cents a mile. . . . .

Other than that, nothing was really done—and there would have been no need for this waste of almost a quarter of a million dollars if the so-called "extraordinary" session had not been called.

With all respect for the fine intent and vast potentialities of the United States form of government, the method of its functioning sometimes savors of kindergarten intelligence.

Mighty Proud of His Baby.

THERE is nothing particularly unusual about the circumstances that preceded the death in Hollywood, of Ted Healy, vaudeville performer and motion picture comedian.

The fact, however, that he spent his boyhood in Ohio and was widely known in this state, arouses more than ordinary local interest in the tragic ending of his career in connection with what started out to be a celebration of his baby's birth.

In a Sunday night round of Hollywood night clubs it appears that Ted took on more liquor than he could carry; that he got into a drunken brawl, described as a "terrific fight," and that he sustained injuries that are believed to have combined with acute alcoholism in causing his death.

An interesting side light on the episode was told by the news story: "A doctor treated him for the wound, and, sobered, repentant and ashamed, he went home. . . ."

His widow and infant son are in University hospital, Culver City. The baby arrived last Friday. On Sunday the proud father started out to celebrate.

Taxpayers and Taxeaters.

AS THE NEW YORK TIMES observes, our ancestors would probably have thrown up their hands in horror if they could have foreseen the state of affairs suggested by a survey of public employment recently released by the Civil Service Assembly.

In 1936, wages and salaries for all employes of government, excluding those on work relief, came to $5,145,873,000—which works out to $160 for each American family of four. As the Times also says, "If the extraordinary figures for relief were added to this normal total, the figures would be fairly astronomical."

When conditions reach a point where the average American family must contribute $160 a year to pay the salaries of "normal" government employes, the day doesn't seem far off when the taxeaters will exceed in number the taxpayers!

Complaint is made that too many people are now striving to leave motor grease on the concrete of Time.

Revival of Wages and Hours Bill Expected

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Most New Dealers are predicting a revival of the wages and hours regulation bill sometime this winter or spring, and in a form in keeping with the Roosevelt objectives. But at the moment it is very difficult to see how this is going to be done.

The difficulties are not technical—actually the new bill would start out with an enormous advantage so far as parliamentary procedure is concerned. But the trouble is to find formula for government control of wages and hours, or rather government banning of too small wages and too long hours, on which enough members of the House could agree to obtain a majority.

The majority which was apparent for the bill just a few weeks back, and which forced the bill out of the Rules committee pigeonhole, was fictitious. It was a simple log-rolling proposition, under which a number of enthusiastic farm relief advocates traded their signatures to the discharge petition, plus the promise of their votes, in order to prevent a bloc movement of the Northern wages and hours advocates against their farm bill.

Just before the coalition was made it appeared that both bills were doomed. The Southerners, through their strength on the Rules committee, had been able to pigeonhole the wage-hour bill at the preceding regular session. This was the surprise of the legislative year, but what really fooled every one was that this strength persisted. So it looked as though the bill would stay pigeonholed.

WEAKNESS of the farm bill forced the coalition, and then it looked as though both bills were sure of passage, though neither was strong enough to stand alone.

With that strange episode now history, the new picture is: How can the men who want a wages and hours bill agree on something strong enough to stand alone?

No compromise so far has been reached on any of the important difficulties. For example, on who is to administer the law. William Green and his friends in the American Federation of Labor do not trust the idea of a board. They fear that President Roosevelt would appoint another group as friendly to CIO as they think the National Labor Relations Board is. Neither the A. F. of L. nor the CIO is enthusiastic about entrusting administration to the department of labor.

But there enters another complication. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins is distinctly unpopular on Captiol Hill. There are quite a few members of the House who would not vote for any bill, on final passage, which gave Secretary Perkins this added power. Particularly bitter in this group are a few Southerners who still resent an unfortunate remark the Secretary made in her first year in office, to the broad general effect that a bigger market for shoes could be built up for Northern factories if so many people in the South would stop going barefoot!

BUT for eleven months, or until the congressional election of 1938, this wage-hour bill will continue to have a tremendous technical advantage. It has passed the Senate. That passage holds until the present Congress dies. Nothing changes between sessions. So it is not a question ever of beating a filibuster. It is merely a question of writing a bill which 218 members of the House and 49 senators would rather vote for than against.

So it is quite possible for a wage-hour bill to be passed. The question is a practical one of meeting obstacles, because an overwhelming majority of both houses would like to eliminate, and by law, both underpaid and overworked labor.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Self-Satisfied Sniffers . . . How Do They Get That Way?

THESE pompous, positive people . . . so satisfied with themselves . . . parading through life like sanctified floor-walkers—

Do they terrify you? They did me, for a long time. In vain I'd clutch my few, poor rags of self-esteem and assure myself that I wasn't a criminal or idiot. One cool glance, one snooty sniff, reduced me instanter to the status of a worm. There they'd stand, looking like a whole Supreme Court, while I cringed, blushed, gargled and made funny faces.

God, Himself, seemed inferior to these majestic mammals. What wisdom . . . what strength! How wonderful to be so perfect! Never to be tortured by doubts and fears . . . never to writhe under ridicule or condemnation! Marvellous, thought I, overcome with awe and envy.

But not any more! For I've made a discovery—an amazing and heartening discovery, which has toppled these demigods off their perch and rid my heart of fear. I've discovered why they are that way. It isn't, as I once thought, because they're so good or wise or strong. It's simply because—

THEY HAVE NO IMAGINATION!

Recently I found a line in an old book which sums them up perfectly. "People without imagination are always cocksure . . . they've been given the power of intimidating and exhausting those who have! The man with imagination is frightened at what he sees in himself. The thought of trying to govern others is abhorrent to him!"

Imagination—what a beating it can and does give us! Consider yourself. Are you ever sure that you have done the right thing . . . the kind or cautious or sensible thing? Are you ever sure that you are making a good impression?

Of course you aren't. To the contrary, you are constantly goaded by secret doubt and terror, disgust and regret. If only you'd acted differently . . . or hadn't acted at all! If only you'd kept your fool mouth shut instead of blabbing everything you knew! What an ass you've made of yourself . . . what a brute! How can anyone ever love or trust you?

And lookit the consequences! Like a dreadful mirage you see those consequences spreading endlessly before you . . . wasted money, lost friendship, ruined reputation.

Do you ever enjoy a proud or peaceful moment? Can you ever say, "I have honestly done the best I could?" Indeed you don't—and can't. Like an avenging fury, your imagination drives you on and on—into ever deepening doubt and despair.

On the other hand, consider these complacent citizens. Are they beset by such doubt and remorse? Of course they aren't. Lacking imagination, they also lack curiosity and that yen for adventure which makes messes of most of us.

Inwardly, they are almost as elemental as a fishworm. They have only a few simple urges—all based on self-preservation. Hence their unfailing prudence and propriety. Not being inquisitive, they are never restless or reckless . . . nor given to sour introspection. Having done a thing in a (to them) suitable manner, they cannot imagine anyone doing it in any other manner. Therefore, they are supremely content with themselves—and suspicious of anyone who differs from them.

You and I, being only too aware of our own weakness, dare not criticize the other fellow. Knowing that there are many sides to any question, we are, perforce, tolerant. But they feel prepared to judge anyone, everyone, including Jehovah and the whole hierarchy or saints.

Remember the iron dog and deer that used to stand on Grandma's lawn? That's what they are really like—these self-righteous censors of the human race. Don't be afraid of them. Pity them, instead. They're solid inside! Better one second of quivering ecstacy or fury than an eternity of their torpid complacency.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Alma Mater.

At sight of it, the other day, our heart missed a beat; entering, we caught our breath while sensing strangely happy-sad phantoms filling the halls: with wistful joy we loitered and lingered where once impatiently we trod.

Alma mater, generic name of the college in which one is educated is intrinsically of sacred significance.

Of Roman Catholic origin, the term originated, it is said, in medieval times, in the University of Bonn, over whose portals stood (and perhaps still stands, a statue of the mother of Christ.

The statue was known as Alma Mater—Fostering Mother—easily attaching itself to the institution and others of its kind.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

Britain's Swing Toward Fascist Camp.

INFORMED Americans wonder whether the British people know how far toward the Nazi-Fascist camp Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is taking them.

The present British government has as its mentors the shrewdest empire-builder capitalists in the world. British Big Business has no animosity toward Nazi-ism so long as Nazi-ism keeps off its toes. And it really believes fascism may "save" capitalism (which is contrary to what the American business man believes). The only reason British Big Business fell out with Mussolini's fascism was because Mussolini DID step on British capital's toes.

THE HALIFAX MISSION

Nobody on the "outside" really knows what Lord Halifax promised to Fuehrer Hitler when he went to Germany as special envoy for Prime Minister Chamberlain. Britain's foreign policies remain as secret to the British citizen as Italy's remain to the Italian citizen, with some few slight exceptions. But the "secret" this time is out all over Europe. Lord Halifax is supposed to have promised Germany a free hand in Czechoslovakia and Austria, if Germany would suspend her claim for colonies for six years—when Britain would "arrange"—presumably—to get some for her.

Czechoslovakia is the democracy that stands in Germany's path toward expansion.

Austria already is as good as Germany's. This, however, may cause the split that everybody expects between Germany and Italy. Mussolini has counted Austria as his.

But imagine how the Czechoslovakians feel.

Something like the Spanish Loyalists when Britain left them flat. General Franco, the Fascist insurgent, had captured the mines with which Britain did business.

And, imagine, too, how France feels. It has the constant feeling that Britain simply balances it against other powers, to keep them all off Britain's toes. Democracy does not seem to enter into the calculations of the ruling power in Britain.

But it does know that as long as France and other countries owe it huge sums of money, it can dictate.

Yet, the French are shrewd diplomats. In fact, they are the most realistic diplomats in the world today. They know that Great Britain must reinforce its fleet in the Far East, thus will be dependent on the French fleet in southern European waters. Thus Britain may have to play up to France more than to Germany—as long as Mussolini threatens in the Mediterranean and Japan in the Orient.

WILL IT MEAN ANYTHING?

All that may sound harsh. It is, however, the gist of what is being said even by British liberal observers themselves. Britain still has free political speech—except when one writes of royalty.

The British government is represented as taking the view that it must compromise with Fascist countries in order to preserve world peace. It must sacrifice a few countries to the east of Germany perhaps. It must "save its face" in many ways—until its huge rearmament is ready. It must make bargains to save its trade "life lines," for Britain lives off its trade overseas. It must stop revolt among the Arabs, keep Egypt and India quiet.

But will Germany and Italy and Japan be appeased? And if they are appeased with too much, will the countries violated, and the other countries who fear—such as France and the Soviet Union, and even the British Dominions (in the case of Japan)—permit these British "deals" to go through?

PEACE?

No less a personage than the British foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, over whose head the prime minister has gone, fears the Tory maneuvers may lead to war, not peace.

The old balance of power trading will not solve the ills of the world. Two of the things that will, the British government will not or cannot put into action—free access to raw resource lands and a redistribution of credit facilities (in which the United States most certainly would have to join). The British government could try to trade these for disarmament.

Incidentally, the offering of a few small colonies in West Africa would not appease Germany. The distress of the "have not" countries would not be lessened by the actual grant of colonies (however satisfactory politically and emotionally that might be). The "raw resource" lands already developed are starving for lack of trade. It is the free movement of trade and the free movement of credit that the world needs.

Germany will find no surcease from her economic woes until other nations will exchange their raw resources and foodstuffs for her manufactured products.

But the spirit of nationalism rides high in all countries—and by nationalism they probably will perish, if not by war, then by starvation.

Invasion of Privacy.

There is no man in the United States doing more for the well being of his fellow citizens than John D. Rockefeller, jr. There is no man who sets a better example to the youth of America. He was calling on the mayor of New York the other day on a housing proposition when he was accosted by a news photographer. "Watch the Birdie," chirruped the man with the camera. This incensed Mr. Rockefeller so much that he lost his temper and his umbrella. He has a well-known dislike for being photographed.

We hear a lot these days about the freedom of the press being in jeopardy, and we may hear more. It will be a sorry day when this constitutional right is infringed, but should it ever come to pass the press itself will have contributed a large share to its accomplishment. The practice of turning loose on notables a brigade of picture fiends with hooligan manners is an invasion of privacy, and this privacy is every bit as dear to the citizen as freedom is to the press.—Oil City (Pa.) Christmas Story Introduced Famed Fiction Character

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

CHRISTMAS WEEK, 1887, 50 years ago, Londoners were offered on their book stalls a small, paper-bound volume called "Beeton's Christmas Annual", its contents entirely devoted to a novel called "A Study in Scarlet", by A. Conan Doyle. It was the first appearance in print of Mr. Sherlock Holmes and that faithful medical follower of his, Dr. John Watson.

The London purchaser of 1887 paid a shilling for his copy, and either very few of these examples of the early work of an unknown writer were printed (as is the wont with publishers under such circumstances) or else most of the readers read and threw the magazines in the trash can, or what is more likely still, the little pamphlet passed from hand to hand, from family to family, until it was literally read to shreds, because very few of them survive, and the would-be possessor of this rarity today would have to pay from $250 to $300 for a good copy.

It was a very medical piece of literature. The author was a physician, Dr. A. Conan Doyle, then nearly starving in genteel poverty, if his medical practice were an indication of his financial status, but destined soon to be one of the best-paid men in English letters. The fictional narrator was a doctor, and the chief character, Sherlock Holmes, was modeled on a most extraordinary doctor, Dr. Joseph Bell of Edinburgh.

Dr. Bell was one of Dr. Doyle's teachers, and the latter never forgot the extraordinary powers of observation and deduction he used in examination of his patients. A patient would walk in the clinic room and Dr. Bell, without asking him a question, would say:

"Oh! Sergeant in an infantry regiment, discharged, but recently serving in the Baradoes, I see."

The patient would say, "Quite so, sir."

"Quite Obvious."

"Quite obvious, gentlemen," Dr. Bell would explain. "He has a military bearing and yet the appearance of one used to some authority—plainly not the bearing of a private. Cavalry and artillery troops do not come to attention in that sharp way—therefore, must be in the infantry. Suffering from a form of skin eruption found only in the Barbadoes, and wearing civilian clothes, so certainly discharged. All very simple."

It seemed simple when Dr. Bell explained it, but he seldom made any mistakes.

"A plasterer, I see," he would say. "Notice, gentlemen, the callous on his thumb where he holds his mortar board. Must be a plasterer."

These incidents, which were legion, were treasured up in the memory of the young medical student, Mr. Doyle, and afterwards blossomed into the character of the most famous detective in fiction, if not the most famous character in fiction.

Such feats of deduction have belonged to other physicians. Corvisart, Napoleon's doctor, entered a room and looking at a portrait said, "The subject of that painting has heart disease," only to be informed that he had, indeed, died of that ailment.

The readers of "Beeton's Christmas Annual" 50 years ago certainly had a Merry Christmas. I can wish my readers no merrier one, which I do with all my heart.

Eyes Do Not Change.

Time takes its toll of flesh, it sets
In wrinkled lines at last
The firm, bright flesh that yesterday
In Beauty's splendor passed.

Time takes its toll, hair turns to snow's
Own white from black or gold,
All that was youth's fair loveliness
Is as a tale once told;

All but the eyes. Eyes do not change.
Dim, yet their character
They keep; inviolate they are
What in youth's day they were.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

THEY are trying to get Lisle Bell, the book reviewer, to write the history of the automobile he bought in California in 1928 of a make now out of existence and whose vicissitudes should have long ago consigned it to the junk pile. Everything has happened to it.

But without ever going to the repair shop, it rolls merrily on. It has crossed the continent twice, emerged cock-a-hoop throught two dust storms and remained for 48 hours in the leavings of an Ohio Valley flood, unhurt. Yet recently Bell complained the upkeep was beginning to tell.

Some boys swiped the radiator cap and the replacement cost 48 cents. The clerk inquired: "Don't you want an ornament?" Bell replied grimly: "When I want an ornament I'll have my wife sit out there." The clerk wandered off, shaking what was left of his head. The other week the car went to the painter.

Bell asked the painter if he didn't want a deposit and received the flattering reply: "No, I'll have the car." The owner didn't know how to take that, in view of the fact the refurbishing cost all of $15. Anyway Old Faithful is now taking the turns in Canada and going strong.

Outside of browsing through a brilliantly lit five and ten, I find nothing more fun in the way of shopping adventure than a snoop through the high-priced luxury establishments—such as Cartier's on the avenue. Especially in the men's section. Fountain pens with gold tops, gold pencils with folding magnifying glass and gold bill clips from $25 up to several hundred. And wrist watches set in gold, black enamel, shell lacquer and platinum all the way up to $1,000. Cigaret cases seem man's best bet in letting himself go—some of platinum and gold woven with initials encrusted in rare gems, would keep an average family off relief for four or five years.

Most men have something in the way of personal adornment with which they are loath to part. The suspenderless Heywood Broun has a frayed belt that is something in the way of an antique. John Drew insisted on detachable cuffs long after they were hooted by the comic papers. George M. Cohan's green dressing robe has been to the cleaners too many times to remember. And Irvin Cobb's full dress suit would have been perfectly dandy at the Lincoln inaugural ball. Even the plushed-up Dwight Fiske is said to wear a red flannel dickey as a protection for chest colds.

My sartorial cling is for a pair of house slippers, scuffed and run over, that have been salvaged twice just in the nick of time from the ash can. Once in a regenerating moment I decided to discard them and go straight. From famed Costa's on the rue St. Honore I had a pair of mauve-toned Russian house boots with flaring cavalier tops fashioned. I promised when they were broken in, the ancient house slippers would go. But H. T. Webster came to call, took one look at the new boots and had neighbors rapping on the radiator pipes for less noise—he grew that hysterical. I made one more heroic effort and tried them out on a train journey, but the heat or something swelled my feet so I had to call a porter to get them off. He seemed to think they were funny, too.

A number in New York pay from $40 to $90 for custom made shoes. One family of bootmakers—the Moores—extends back through three generations. Stanford White was the most generous patron in his day of hand made shoes, ordering a dozen at a crack. Dancers, such as Clifton Webb, Paul Draper, Ray Bolger and such, buy the best of carefully made shoes, for their livelihood depends solely on keeping their feet in perfect condition. Damon Runyon is the best customer among the laymen.

JAPAN FORMS NEW REGIME FOR NANKING

Sets Up New Government to Replace Kai-Shek's Rule In Captured City.

SHANGHAI—Japanese officials today announced the formation of a new autonomous government at Nanking, presumably replacing the Chinese regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek which fled from the former capital a month ago.

The Japanese army announced the capture of Nanking Dec. 13, and Japan's highest army and navy commanders in this area made a triumphal entry four days later.

Recent Japanese military operations on an arc west and north of Nanking have been described as designed to prevent any Chinese counterattack which would upset Japanese plans for a new provisional regime at Nanking.

(Ten days ago a "provisional government of China" was proclaimed under Japanese auspices at Peiping, renamed Peking. It aspired to be the government of all China and raised the five-barred flag of the Peking regimes which ruled China before the nationalist revolution of 1926-28. How the Peking and Nanking regimes are to be reconciled has not been made clear.

Government Offices Empty.

(From Nanking various departments of the Chinese government fled late in November to Hankow, Changsha and Chungking, the last-named nearly 1,500 miles up the Yangtze river.)

▲ Japanese army spokesman predicted the early capture of Changchow, historic capital of Chekiang province, southwest of Shanghai, and Japanese authorities warned foreigners to evacuate the city.

The spokesman said the Japanese command "has the impression the Chinees believe resistance (in the Hangchow area) is futile."

It was feared evacuation of Americans and other foreigners from Hangchow, for centuries one of China's most famous beauty spots and religious centers, would be difficult. Booms have been placed across the shallow Chientang river, its outlet to the sea, and the railway to Ningpo, the nearest seaport, has been heavily bombed by Japanese planes.

The United States and Great Britain, both of which have nationals in the area south of Shanghai, were among powers whose consuls received the warning from Japanese consular officers.

The notification also included Shaoshing, near the gulf of Hangchow, about 35 miles southeast of the provincial capital.

Japanese declared the defenders of Hangchow would be trapped or compelled to withdraw by forces completing encirclement of the seaport from three sides.

American, Chinese and foreign refugees, meanwhile, were in flight from Canton, Tsingtao, Hankow and other Chinese cities where Japan's spreading attack appeared aimed.

Bellville Church To Hold Services On Christmas Eve

The prelude will be played by Mrs. John Eby, violinist, during which time candles for the service will be lighted, to be followed by the processional of both the Young People's and Senior choirs in their new white uniforms.

Those taking part in the pageant are Thomas Ritter, Frederick Leedy, Lester Kochheiser, George Bowers, jr., Geraldine Clever, Virginia Starrett and Richard Starrett.

The service will be concluded at midnight with the sounding of the church bell and the choirs and congregation singing the Christmas carol, "Joy to the World."

BASKETS GO TO 1,050 FAMILIES

Muster-Cheers Distribute 700 Tomorrow, Delano Lodge Sends Out 350.

with Jane Williams of The News-Journal, and Mrs. Kathryne Bancroft in charge of issuing tickets.

What Goes Into Baskets.

The baskets this year contain enough food for several meals, including Christmas breakfast and dinner. The average size basket, for instance, for a family of five persons will contain the following items:

Three pounds of quality boned and smoked ham; ten pounds of potatoes; three-pound head of cabbage; five pounds of apples; a half dozen oranges; two pounds of beans; one pound of coffee; five pounds of prepared pancake flour; a can of pancake syrup; two loaves of bread; one-pound box of crackers; a dozen Christmas nut cookies; one can of tomatoes; two cans of other vegetables; one can of fruit, and a jar of jelly.

All persons who are able will come to the Salvation Army home for their own baskets. About 150 will be delivered to elderly persons and those who cannot send for them.

Feast for Single Men.

On Christmas day the Salvation Army will be hosts to about 75 men who do not have families and are on relief. Food for the dinner will be purchased from the Community Christmas Fund, and there will be everything from baked ham to pumpkin pie.

And while unemployed families are being remembered by the Community Christmas Fund and Delano lodge, the Christmas spirit has spread out over the city, and organizations and individuals have "adopted" families for the holiday. Thirty-five families have been "adopted" from the files of the Three Muster-Cheers.

The biggest Christmas "party" in Mansfield will be that for children at the Salvation Army home Friday at 3 p. m., when 450 children from needy families will be entertained with a program; each one given a toy, and a sack of candy, nuts and apples.

This party is an annual one arranged by the Salvation Army, for which funds are raised by the familiar Army "kettles" on the downtown streets. Tickets for this party were mailed to children early last week.

Four Parties for Children.

Four parties were scheduled for the youngsters of the Richland County Children's Home. Tuesday night the Marty Hogan dancing school pupils gave an entertainment at the home, with ice cream and cake for all the children; and last night the Marguerite Speas dance pupils took Santa Claus with them when they visited the home. The smaller pupils, dressed in costumes, gave a show, which was followed by Santa Claus "in person" who had a gift for every child.

Tonight the Isaac Walton league will have a party for them, and Friday afternoon the Elks lodge will give their annual party for the children by taking them all to a picture show and presenting each with a Christmas treat. On Christmas day, there will be turkey for dinner, which has every youngster in a high state of excitement.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FLIES WEST ON SURPRISE VISIT TO DAUGHTER

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was en route to Seattle, Wash., by airplane today for a surprise Christmas visit to her daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, and family.

This was announced by White House aids who said Mrs. Roosevelt's trip west was decided upon last night by the president and the first lady.

Most of the Roosebelt family was scheduled to come to Washington for a White House Christmas, but Mrs. Boettiger was unable to travel here because of an illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt decided therefore, that they would "divide" themselves between the two family groups.

The first lady took a regular commercial airplane from Washington airport last night and is due in Seattle late today.

Mrs. Boettiger returned to her home only recently from a Seattle hospital, but the White House emphasized that her illness is not serious. Mrs. Roosevelt is expected to return to Washington Tuesday night.

Presidential aids said there was a possibility the whole Roosevelt family might be united Christmas day by telephone. Plans were being discussed for a three-way telephone conversation connecting the Washington and Seattle groups with the family of the Roosevelt's son Elliott in Fort Worth Tex.

Meanwhile, fifteen hundred children expecting Mrs. Roosevelt at a theater distribution of candy this morning sighed audibly when the white bearded Santa Claus announced she could not be present.

ADMITS JAPS FIRED ON U. S. CITIZENS IN PANAY INCIDENT

TOKYO — (AP) — The Japanese army today admitted for the first time the machine-gunning of Americans in the Yantze river Panay incident, but did not mention firing on the United States gunboat itself.

Lieut. Col. Yoshiaki Nishi, former assistant Japanese military attache at Washington, described at length the incident in which the Panay and three other American vessels were attacked. He had just returned from an investigation held at Pukow, across the Yangtze from Nanking.

(Nishi's investigations had formed the basis of previous official Japanese army statements on the Panay incident. He flew from Shanghai to Tokyo yesterday to submit his detailed report to the war office.

(Previously, Maj. Gen. Kumakichi Harda, military attache at Shanghai, had issued a denial of American charges that Japanese army boats had machine-gunned the Panay.

(On the same day, the Japanese foreign office spokesman at Tokyo reversed the governments' previous denial that Japanese army craft had fired on the Panay.)

Heavily emphasizing Japanese troops' humanitarian actions when they were said to have discovered the Panay and launches evacuating its crew carried Americans, Nishi declared the entire incident resulted from efforts to cut off Chinese troops fleeing Nanking.

He stated positively that the Japanese troops had failed to see identification or flags of any kind.

Machine-gunning by troops from surface vessels allegedly was confined exclusively to launches and there was no firing on the Panay herself.

MAPS FLEET SHIFT

LONDON—(AP)—Great Britain took steps today to insure quick movement of part of her Mediterranean fleet to the Orient in any emergency.

A decision was understood to have been reached, however, against immediate naval reinforcements in the far east.

Authoritative sources said the cabinet, at yesterdays day and night sessions, considered the admiralty's technical plan for naval reinforcements but left further decision to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden over the Christmas holidays.

a marked increase in unemployment.

"Despite the general slump in business in recent weeks," Lodde said, "Mansfield's total business for the year was well ahead of the 1936 volume."

The volume of business at the Mansfield postoffice has already shot past the receipts for the holiday season last year and cancellations for the last three-day period set a new record for the local office.

Total cancellations for the period of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were 362,000 which is 59,000 more than the total for the same period in 1936 when the total cancellations reached 303,000.

Postmaster Herman Homberger said however, that outgoing mail had dropped off somewhat today but that incoming mail was steadily increasing and was expected to hit its peak tomorrow.

Rays From Candle To Turn On Huge 'W' Sign Tonight

The light from a Christmas candle will flicker in the office of A. E. Allen, vice president of the Westinghouse plant, at 8 p. m., today, and set in motion the mechanism that will turn on the new 200-foot Westinghouse sign for the first time.

The candle, one of the kind that decorates mantle pieces and dinner tables, will be lighted by Allen and the rays will enter an electric eye connected with the sign's operating mechanism.

The sign, which is 20 feet high and bears the company trademark and slogan: "Every House Needs Westinghouse," is located on top the main office building, 125 feet in the air.

It faces east and will be visible for several miles from routes 30 and 42, company engineers said. Turned on and off by an automatic time switch, the sign will be lighted at dark and will operate until midnight.

Chamber of Commerce and Westinghouse officials will witness the "christening ceremonies" on the fifth floor of the Westinghouse office building.

Scheduled to go on last Saturday night, the huge sign has been dark this week while engineers completed wiring details.

EX-INMATES TO DIE ON GALLOWS

2 Paroled From O. S. R. Last July, Sentenced to Death In West Virginia.

Two former inmates of the Mansfield reformatory, found guilty of murder in the kidnaping of Dr. James I. Seder, 79-year-old dry leader of Huntington, W. Va., faced death on the gallows today.

They were Orville Adkins, 24, and John Travis, 25, who were paroled from the reformatory last July 1 after serving 18 months.

A former convict, Arnett A. Booth, 46, their accomplice in the kidnaping of the aged retired minister, will be hanged with the pair. The triple execution has been set for March 21 at the state penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va.

Adkins and Travis wept silently yesterday while the court pronounced sentence on Booth. They came quietly before Judge H. Clay Warth a few moments later and heard the same sentence, death by hanging.

Adkins said nothing. Travis, who was married five days after Dr. Seder was kidnaped, told the court he had been reading the Bible since his trial and quoted a passage:

'Fear not those who can kill the body and can do no more."

Dr. Seder was abducted from his home on Nov. 1. Ten days later the aged churchman stumbled bleeding and suffering from cold, from a woods not far from Huntington and told how he had been held captive in a damp, abandoned coal mine. He died four days later.

Several visitors were present from the Ashland aerie, and remarks were given by Waldo Jones, worthy president of the Ashland lodge.

QUESTION 20 IN GANG SLAYING

Steubenville Police Fear Reprisal In Underworld Shooting.

STEUBENVILLE —(AP)—Investigators questioned men with police records today in an effort to find a key clue in the shotgun slaying of 28-year-old Daniel Visnich, which Mayor Earl Applegate termed "unquestionably a gang affair."

Officers said the shooting might result in gang reprisal warfare. Nearly 20 police characters have been questioned and released.

Visnich fell mortally wounded by slugs from a sawed-off shotgun yesterday as he and Daniel Rackinac, 26, emerged from a hall where they attended a stag party. The killers fired from an automobile.

KILLED IN CRASH

Why take needless chances with

Coughing Colds

Relieve their misery this PROVED way

You don't have to experiment. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you.

Here's What To Do: It's best to keep the patient in bed and see that she gets lots of rest. Be sure she eats lightly, drinks plenty of water, and keeps elimination regular. And use your dependable Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

NO LONG WAITING FOR RELIEF TO BEGIN

VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no risk of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back.

Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, you begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working.

NOTE: If the cough is very annoying, or the air-passages feel clogged with heavy mucus or phlegm, even stronger vapor action is helpful. Pour boiling water in a bowl, melt a teaspoonful of VapoRub in it, and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes.

Sees Roosevelt 'Compelled' to Run for Third Term

NORRIS FLAYS 'PROPAGANDA' FROM ENEMIES

Senator Blasts at 'Outside' Efforts to Frighten and Control Congress.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.)—Continued blocking of the New Deal program will "compel" President Roosevelt to seek a third term, Sen. George W. Norris, I., Neb., an influential New Deal backer, said today.

The Nebraskan's statement was of special interest because he was one of a senate liberal bloc that discussed the general legislative situation this week at the White House and urged President Roosevelt to resist demands for drastic changes in policy to combat the business recession.

Sees 'Campaign' Continue..

"There is a concerted outside effort to frighten and control congress and to defeat the president's program," Norris said.

"It probably will continue until 1940 in an effort to elect a reactionary president. And that will compel Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term despite his own desire to retire.

"Personally, I do not believe in the third term idea but if this false propaganda campaign continues I will do everything in my power to aid in re-election of Mr. Roosevelt."

In setting forth his views of the current congressional conflict over efforts to encourage private enterprise, Norris disagreed sharply with a powerful group of senate Democrats and Republicans seeking drastic changes in administration spending, taxation and power policies. He charged that public utilities and a majority of the newspapers were chiefly responsible for what he considered an unfair campaign to defeat the president's program.

A contrasting view was taken by Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., who praised the "fair" presentation of facts by the nation's press.

"The president," Norris said, "is not trying to control congress in my opinion. For instance, the agriculture committee never got any co-operation out of the agriculture department when it was working on the farm bill except when it asked for help.

Hits Newspapers.

"All this talk about the president dictating to congress is propaganda. The great majority of the newspapers of the country are not giving a fair or impartial view of the present situation because they are opposed to the New Deal and to New Deal legislation.

"The president is, in a general way, putting his program up to congress and saying: 'It is your problem.' The people who are trying to control congress are the newspapers and, if the campaign continues, it will force Mr. Roosevelt to run again."

Burke, however, said "the press as a whole has done a fine job, although there are some which are one-sided either for or against the administration." Burke has declared himself opposed to a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

"But generally the newspapers are eager to and do give the facts fairly. I believe that virtually all members of the senate feel that that is true."

Christmas To Be Unique Affair For Orrville Couple

ORRVILLE —(U.P.)— The Christmas party to be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Myers here will be unique in several respects.

In the first place, the couple will observe their 60th wedding anniversary. In the second place, their 43-year-old triplets will be guests of honor.

The family's Christmas story began on Dec. 24, 1877, when Allie Fair and Fred Myers were married at Millersburg, Holmes county.

Another big event in their lives was the birth of triplets—Chester, Esther and Lester—in August 1894. For months after their birth, people came to the Myers home to see the triplets, quite a rarity in their own community.

The triplets and five other Myers children will be home for the Christmas party.

There are 14 grandchildren, four great grandchildren, and enough other relatives to make a guest list of 37 for the Christmas party.

Blames 'Dictator' Lewis for Peace Failure

Up and Down THE STREET

Marianne Springer, who was a member of the society staff of The News-Journal during the last vacation period, is continuing her studies at Northwestern university, but she is far from out of the newspaper picture. A student in journalism, Marianne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Springer, 20 Euclid avenue, has been assigned to several interesting stories. She has attended several trials in Chicago courts, and has interviewed numerous prominent persons for the school paper. Among them was Antonio, famous French hair dresser, who created the coiffure of the Duchess of Windsor and dressed her hair for her marriage.

His fellow workers at the courthouse have concluded that Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck knew what he was doing last summer when he chose to postpone his vacation and "hold the fort" while the others were taking their holidays. Now he's basking in the Florida sun for two weeks. He plans to return about Jan. 1.

Oscar Krupp's just a bit puzzled these days. He's been on the police force for a long time, and he has always been perfectly satisfied with having a police station look like his idea of what a police station should look like. But since Miss Helen Baughman became traffic bureau clerk, a few feminine touches have appeared—such as green drapes on the windows of the detective bureau and the traffic bureau. Krupp, who is first shift desk sergeant has his fingers crossed, hoping drapes don't appear in his place. He doesn't think it would look right, somehow.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Youth Thrown Through Windshield as Car Hits Pole.

Thrown through the windshield when the automobile he was driving struck a telephone pole along route 42 last night, John McNaul, 17, of near Lexington was in a critical condition today at General hospital.

The youth, who apparently lost control of the car on a curve at Orchard park, about a half-mile north of Lexington, suffered deep lacerations on his head, neck and face and fracture of his nose. His companion, Charles Ink, also of near Lexington, escaped injury.

The car, which was headed north, turned over after crashing into the pole, State Patrolman R. L. Doebel said.

In another accident in the southern part of the county, Lester Fry and Calvin Chamberlin, both of near Bellville, escaped unhurt about 6:45 p. m. yesterday when their automobiles sideswiped on a country road just west of Bellville.

COURT TO TEST MONOPOLY LAW

State's Highest Tribunal to Hear Suit Attacking Ohio Liquor Regulations.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A suit directly attacking constitutionality of the state liquor monopoly will be heard by the Ohio supreme court sometime in February or March, it was indicated today.

The court agreed yesterday to hear the suit on its merits, marking the first time that constitutionality of the post-prohibition liquor control system has been reviewed by the state's highest court. Several common pleas courts have upheld the legality of the Ohio liquor law and at least two have ruled against the state.

The supreme court action was brought by Eli G. Frankenstein of Cincinnati, who lost in the lower courts a fight to escape paying assessments imposed by the liquor board on liquor imported into Ohio.

Frankenstein, while offering to pay a $1 gallonage tax on liquor purchased in Kentucky for his personal use, protested a charge equal to 30 per cent of the invoice price of the liquor and a 15 per cent handling fee.

His counsel termed the taxing power unlawful and contended that establishment of a monopoly in a private enterprise created a Communistic state in Ohio.

A three-judge federal court now is considering whether to hear another suit challenging validity of the Ohio liquor law and the Second Distirict Court of Appeals recently affirmed in the Frankenstein case validity of the monopoly.

ALCOHOLISM, DISEASE CAUSE OF HEALY'S DEATH, AUTOPSY SHOWS

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Ted Healy's unidentified antagonist, who gave him a beating Sunday night, was absolved of blame for his death today in the coroner's report which attributed the comedian's end to disease and alcoholism.

Two reports of the death were made. The official death certificate, signed by Dr. A. F. Wagner, autopsy surgeon, gave the causes as acute toxic nephritis, with acute and chronic alcoholism as contributory factors. The other, given out by the coroner's office, said it was due to heart disease and lung congestion.

Neather of them attached any blames to the person who intercepted Healy, who was celebrating the birth of his first son, somewhere along his round of the night clubs Sunday night and Monday morning, and fought with him. Healy's head was cut and bruised, but Dr. Wagner said the wounds were superficial.

Healy was treated by a doctor sometime after his fight and then went home. Monday he began having convulsions, which continued until he died Tuesday. Dr. Wyant Lamont, who attended him, refused to sign the death certificate because of the head wounds Healy suffered, and the coroner's investigation followed.

Healy was creator of the "stooge" and was a featured star for many years in comedy roles for the vaudeville, radio and pictures. He lived as a boy in Canton and Columbus, O.

Healy's funeral will be held today at St. Augustine's Catholic church in Culver City. Father John O'Donnell will celebrate the requiem mass. Pallbearers will be E. J. Mannix, Harry Rapf, Charles Foy, Fay Mayer, Dick Powell, Busby Berkeley, Charles Reisner and Jack Marcus. The burial will be in Calvary cemetery, where Healy's mother is buried.

GREEN ASSERTS RIVAL REJECTED PACT CIO OK'D

Federation Chief Says Lewis Gets Ready to Run Self For President.

COSHOCTON — (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, back among home townspeople today for his annual Christmas holiday visit, blamed John L. Lewis' "dictatorship" over the Committee for Industrial Organization for failure of peace conferences between the two groups.

At the same time the AFL leader, reviewing his years of effort in the labor movement hinted that his duties of office might be bearing a bit heavily on him. He said:

'I do not know how long I will continue. I've put such hard service into this job for the past several years that I will be able to appreciate, when I may do so, a return to the peaceful home life of Coshocton."

But Green, charter members for half a century of Morgan Run local of Lewis' United Mine Workers, offered no quarter when mentioning the CIO-AFL feud. Speaking before several hundred fellow townsmen at a banquet last night, he said:

Won't Surrender.

"The word surrender is not in the vocabulary of the American Federation of Labor. Through much of its life, it has been submitted to severe tests. We will meet those tests unflinchingly."

Green's local has been inactive for years. It never has acted on a national executive committee order for his expulsion which was issued when labor's internecine warfare reached its height.

Speaking of recent conferences in Washington, D. C., when CIO and AFL groups sought to make a peace pact, Green said:

"I want to tell you a secret. A committee representing these two groups agreed upon a plan we proposed to the twelve (members of the committee).

"That was because the dictator was absent somewhere. When they (the groups) returned in the afternoon, the dictator had aroused himself and he said: 'Thumbs down. Veto.'

"The committee then said, 'Sorry, we can't accept that plan' and we replied: 'Then we're done'."

Green declared the issue between the two labor groups was not one of class unionism and industrial unionism but one of Lewis attempting to realize "a personal ambition."

"Lewis in attempting to establish an independent political party is practically ruining the American labor movement," he asserted. "When the time comes that he will yell for a nominee, he will say: 'I am the man'."

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

IT IS STATED that the administration legislative leaders, after leaving the White House conference where the wreck of the extra session was reviewed, at the suggestion of the president, "planned to telegraph" the members of the conference committee on the farm bill to return in the holidays in order to get the new crop control bill in shape to report out the first week in January.

Perhaps they did "plan to telegraph" but there is reason to believe that they did not carry out the plan. One reason is that the man who would have to be recalled and without whom no business could be done is Senator Ellison Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the agricultural committee and also chairman of the conference committee. The chances of getting Senator Smith to come back to Washington for the purpose of advancing the time when this bill shall become a law are very remote, indeed. On the contrary, there is reason for feeling that Senator Smith's private—and not so private, at that—conviction is that it would be of considerable national benefit if the bill never becomes a law.

THOUGH he was its official sponsor in the senate, the character of his presentation and defense were such as to make it clear that neither in principle nor in detail did he approve its contents. It is also well known that Senator Smith resented the pressure upon him to produce such a bill; that it does not express his ideas; that he has grave doubts both as to its work-ability and its constitutionality. And as for the cost, he publicly proclaimed he had no idea whatsoever. Nor has anyone else.

UNDER the circumstances, the thought that under White House pressure, which he resents anyhow, Senator Smith will come tearing back from South Carolina to accelerate the speed of this measure is a little bit ridiculous. Indeed, though each house has passed a crop control bill and the enactment of some compromise between the two as a result of the conference committee's report seems "inevitable as the session ends, the opposition among the farmers, themselves, to the basic idea behind the bill grows more intense and outspoken. To such an extent is this true that it is different to see how it can be ignored by the administration.

IT WOULD SEEM that Secretary Wallace, for one, would be shaken by the strong indictment of his scheme, which comes, not from politicians or industrialists, but from the best type of farm leaders and farm organizations. Certainly, in the future he cannot say that he was not warned. For example, the National grange in a recent declaration on the subject, asserts that "there must be no legislation which would result in either immediate or eventual regimentation of the farmers." Continuing, the grange says of the senate bill, "if this bill should be enacted it would lay the basis for 100,000 law suits in the agricultural states every year. So far from being a help in the solution of the farm problem, there is justification for saying that it would render the plight of the farmer more desperate than before. In the opinion of the national grange both house and senate bills should be referred back to the committee and stripped of their compulsory features."

THE PENNSYLVANIA FARMER, one of the strongest agricultural journals in the country, in a recent editorial lambasts both bills, and in particular denounces Mr. Wallace's ever normal granary idea as an abnormality. Concluding, the editorial says: "We believe that nobody can even estimate the number of persons needed to administer such laws. Nor can the cost be determined in advance with loans, payments, inspections, personnel and other inevitable items to consider in a plan so complex and so broadly applied. The whole thing is a mess, a mixture of good intentions, fallacies, complexities, extravagance, and injustice—things which will deefat it in the end even if enacted and approved at this time."

IN THE FACE of such devastating denunciation and warnings from the farming interests, it seems as incredible that the administration should persist in pressing and that congress should pass this proposition. Yet apparently before the end of January that is what is going to be done. As the time nears, more people appear to appreciate the monstrous quality and implications of the roposal. It is the combined product of administration dreamers and agricultural politicians. It is not understood in congress or in the country. It is another experiment made in spite of experience and the prediction is made by men whose farm judgment should be as sound as any, that, even if sustained by the court, it will be the course of a few years crumple through its own weight and complications, just as did the NRA, without benefitting the farmers and at almost ruinous cost to the country.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

his congressman about the housing problem in this stellar community, but a few letters could be written on the subject.

Finding a roof for the stellar head is a bigger problem than you'd think. Listening to a house-hunting star relate his woes in house-hunting is enough to stir you into a lather of sympathy. It isn't that there aren't plenty of houses. One hunter recently insisted to me that every house he saw was for rent—as soon as the owner learned the hunter was a movie star.

Just to illustrate, there's the case of France's Annabella. Annabella needed a large place, what with family, servants and retainers. Her agents selected a list of suitable homes, presented them for her choice. And Annabella, who is wiser now, went for a personal inspection. She went in her big car, driven by a chauffeur, and didn't bother to conceal the fact she was in pictures. Oddly, the prices quoted to her jumped from those quoted to the agents. She didn't take one. John Cromwell, who was leaving town for a while, leased his place to her out of sympathy.

Picture people travel so much now that one star frequently lets another rent his home during an absence. Colleen Moore's big estate, with swimming pool, tennis courts and all, has sheltered many another star, including Marlene Dietrich. The Countess di Frasso's place has been occupied in turn by Dietrich, the Jack Bennys and currently by Fannie Brice, Beatrice Lillie, Ann Pennington and Sophie Tucker, a merry foursome.

These travels, or just the urge to move, are responsible for the constantly changing addresses of screen celebrities. Garbo, who rented Neil Hamilton's place, has moved out and Jack Oakie has moved in. Garbo's housing requirements include, first of all, privacy. Alice Faye likes to move for a change of scenery. Many, like Ethel Merman, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, prefer apartments.

Most of the stars eventually build their own homes. Some who already own their own homes build others. Bing Crosby, Dick Powell, Paul Muni, Fredric March, Claudette Colbert, Fred MacMurray, Pat O'Brien are among the big taxpayers, and Kay Francis, long a renter of modest homes, is building her own in a canyon.

You can rent an apartment in Hollywood for from $25 to $1,000 or more a month, depending on your taste. If you're interested, of course, you'll want to look at this one: "Privately furnished apartment, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, living room, dining room, kitchen, daily maid service, etc. . . . $300."

Or this: "Owner's exquisite home, all carpeted, light furniture, 4 bedrooms, 4 baths, servant's quarters, playroom and bar, lovely grounds . . . $800 a month."

Want to buy? Here's your chance: "4 master bedrooms, 2 servant's rooms, chauffeur's quarters, large playroom, gorgeous bar, Turkish and electric baths, all-mirrored master dressing room, tiled pool, room for tennis courts . . . Air conditioned, earthquake-dry rot-termite-proofed . . . Neighbors Claudette Colbert, Raquel Torres, Irene Dunne, Walter Wanger" . . . Price complete, $85,000."
